SL. No.	Date	Office Notes, reports, orders or proceedings or directions and Registrar's order with Signatures	COURT'S OR JUDGE'S ORDERS
			UKHC010207962026 2026:UHC:10777 CRLR/898/2026 Parkash Tamta --Revisionist Versus State Of Uttarakhand --Respondent Hon'ble Siddhartha Sah, J. Mr. Bilal Ahmed, learned counsel for the revisionist appears through V.C. 2. Mr. S.S. Chauhan, Dy.A.G. along with Mr. Vikas Uniyal, Brief Holder for the State. 3. Mr. Ashok Kumar Beniwal, learned counsel for the respondent no.2 appears through V.C. 4. By means of the present criminal revision, the revisionist has assailed the judgment and order dated 08.10.2026, passed by learned Second Additional Session Judge, Nainital in Criminal Appeal No.03 of 2024, affirming the judgment and order dated 08.12.2023 passed by the learned Judicial Magistrate/2nd Civil Judge (J.D.) Nainital in Criminal Case No. 3542 of 2018, "State versus Prakash Tamta. Now The Compounding Application, IA No.1 of 2026, has been filed by the parties with a prayer to permit compounding of the offences punishable under Sections 504 and 506 IPC on the basis of an amicable settlement between that parties. The Exemption Application, IA No.2 of 2026 has also been filed by the revisionist. 5. Heard on the exemption application. 6. The parties have entered into a settlement and also filed a compounding application and also and in view of the judgment of a Division Bench of this Court rendered in WPMB No.84 of 2023 dated 26.05.2023, this Court finds that the revisionist is entitled to exemption from surrender. 7. Exemption Application (IA No.2 of 2026) is hereby allowed. 8. The revisionist is exempted from surrendering before the court below before entertaining this revision. 9. Learned counsel for the revisionist submits that the revisionist and the respondent no.2 have come to an amicable settlement. Now, the compounding application has been filed. 10. Mr. Yadvendra Shah, the complainant/respondent no.2 has joined the proceedings through video conferencing, as duly identified by the learned counsel for the respondent no.2. 11. Mr. Parkash Tamta, the revisionist, is also present in person before the Court , as duly identified by the learned counsel for the revisionist. 12. Heard on the compounding application. 13. The compounding application has been jointly filed on behalf of the revisionist and the respondent no.2. The compounding application is duly supported by the affidavit of the revisionist as well as the affidavit of the respondent no.2. 14. On interaction with the respondent no.2, who is appearing through video conferencing, he states before the Court that the matter has been amicably resolved between the parties and he does not want to prosecute the revisionist any further. 15. The revisionist is also present in person before the Court. He too states that the matter has been amicably settled and the compounding application may be allowed. 16. The learned Dy. A.G. also states that the offences are compoundable and the application is not seriously opposed by him. 17. Since the parties have entered into an amicable settlement, and they have also filed their affidavits in support of the compounding application, and the respondent no.2 has stated before the Court that he does not wish to prosecute the revisionist any further, no useful purpose would be served by proceeding to hear the revision on its merit. Moreover, the offences are compoundable. In such view of the matter, the compounding application is allowed. 18. The respondent is permitted to compound the offences and resultantly the revision is allowed in terms of the compounding application and the judgment and order dated 08.10.2026, passed by learned Second Additional Session Judge, Nainital in Criminal Appeal No.03 of 2024; and order dated 08.12.2023 passed by the learned Judicial Magistrate/2nd Civil Judge (J.D.) Nainital in Criminal Case No. 3542 of 2018, “State versus Prakash Tamta, are hereby set aside. 19. The revision is accordingly disposed of in the aforesaid terms. (Siddhartha Sah, J.) 23-11-2026 R.Bisht