2. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the petitioner is running a store and the accused persons are working in the store. Since some jewels are missing from the petitioner's house, the petitioner made enquiry with the accused persons. Thereafter, the accused persons have not returned to work. Later, the petitioner came to know that the accused persons have pledged the jewels missing for a sum of Rs.6,15,000/- in the State Bank of India. The petitioner approached the accused persons to return the jewels. Alleging that they have threatened the petitioner with dire consequence, the present case came to be registered.
