CORAM: HONOURABLE MR. JUSTICE V. NATH
ORAL ORDER

13 22-01-2015

The learned counsel for the petitioners has fairly submitted that the findings recorded on the issue of personal necessity by the learned court below is not vulnerable. However, it has been further submitted that the plaintiff-opposite parties, seek the eviction only with intention to induct fresh tenant in the suit premises and in view of this fact it has also been submitted that the petitioners are ready to pay the enhanced rent, which may be imposed by the plaintiff reasonably and continue as tenant under the plaintiff.

The learned counsel for the plaintiff-opposite parties, however, has submitted that the plaintiffs do not intend to let out the suit premises to tenants and the eviction has been sought on the ground of personal necessity for the purpose of residence of the plaintiffs in the suit premises.

In view of the aforesaid stand and submissions by the learned counsel for the parties, this Court does not find any merit in this revision application, which is, accordingly, dismissed.
