CORAM: HONOURABLE MR. JUSTICE JYOTI SARAN
ORAL ORDER

8 30-09-2015 Heard Mr. Md. Naushad Uzzoha, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned counsel for the State and Mr. Anil Prasad

Singh, learned counsel for the complainant.

The petitioner apprehending his arrest in a case arising from Complaint Case No. 1082 of 2013 registered under Section 498A of the Indian Penal Code came before this Court through the present bail application praying for anticipatory bail. Vide order passed on 13.3.2015 this Court while granting provisional bail to the petitioner issued notice to the complainant since the submission reflected a possibility of a settlement. The parties appeared before this Court and were agreeable to restoration of matrimonial harmony but which has ultimately not succeeded.

Even the suggestion for a settlement on other grounds has not borne any result.

Considering the nature of contest as well as the fact that the petitioner has already been granted provisional bail, this Court while confirming the provisional bail granted to the petitioner would require the court below in seisin of the complaint case to explore any possibility of settlement by way of restoration of matrimonial harmony or on such other terms and conditions that may be agreeable to the parties.

This application is allowed with the observations aforementioned.
