Crl. M.C No. 4842 of 2014

Dated this the 11th day of March, 2015.

O R D E R

The petitioners herein are the two accused in C.C No. 285 of 2011 of the Judicial First Class Magistrate Court-II, Cherthala. The offence involved in the case is punishable under Section 420 IPC. There is a report by the learned Magistrate that the second accused, who is the second petitioner herein, stands already acquitted by judgment dated 19.4.2011. Both the accused seek orders quashing the prosecution. This Crl.M.C was filed on 25.8.2014 after three years from the date of acquittal of the second accused. But she is also a party here. This shows the irresponsible way in which this proceeding is filed to quash the prosecution. The report of the learned Magistrate shows that warrant of arrest is there against the first petitioner (first accused) due to consistent absence in court. The report also shows that on 20.2.2014 a composition was filed in court, but it was not later pursued. Even thereafter the first accused remained absent on many occasions. Now as a short cut he has come before this court to get the proceeding quashed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. I am not inclined to entertain this Crl.M.C under Section 482 Cr.P.C. The first accused will have to surrender before the learned Magistrate. If the offence stands really compounded, the parties can very well file composition afresh before the learned Magistrate. The offence is compoundable under the law. In such a case orders cannot be passed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. If there is a real settlement, the parties can file composition on the date of surrender itself. Otherwise, the first accused will have to obtain regular bail. His application will be judiciously considered by the learned Magistrate on the date of surrender itself.

With these observations, this Crl.M.C is closed, directing the first petitioner to approach the learned Magistrate for appropriate orders including composition.

P.UBAID,
JUDGE
