For Respondents: Mr.V.Jayaprakash Narayanan

With the consent of both parties, the writ petition itself is taken up for final disposal at the time of admission.

2. The father of the petitioner was working as Village Assistant. He died on 28.01.2011 while he was in service, leaving behind his wife, two daughters and his mother as legal heirs.

3.The petitioner, after getting consent from her mother and elder sister for getting appointment on compassionate appointment, submitted an application for compassionate appointment on 20.08.2012, to the third respondent. After conducting enquiry, the third respondent forwarded the application to the second respondent on 22.08.2014, for further action and the second respondent in turn forwarded the same to the first respondent. However, the first respondent, respondent passed the impugned order dated 29.11.2001, wherein and by which, the application of the petitioner was rejected on the sole ground that compassionate appointment cannot be granted to married daughters. Hence, the petitioner has filed this writ petition, seeking to quash the aforesaid order dated 28.08.2003 declining to grant compassionate appointment on the ground of marriage.

4. The learned counsel for the petitioner placed reliance on the judgments of this Court reported in 2008 (5) CTC 686 [G.Girija v. The Assistant Director (Panchayats), Kancheepuram District and (2013) 8 MLJ 684 [Krishnaveni v. Superintending Engineer, Kadamparai Electricity Generation Block, Coimbatore District] and would submit that the State cannot discriminate in the matter of providing compassionate appointment to women, on the ground of marriage.

5. On the other hand, the learned Special Government Pleader has submitted that earlier, there was a total restriction in providing compassionate appointment to married daughter, but now the Government issued G.O.Ms.No.165 Labour and Employment Department, dated 30.08.2010 providing compassionate appointment to married daughter, provided that she was unmarried at the time of submitting application for compassionate appointment. According to the learned Special Government Pleader, the petitioner was married even before the death of her father. Hence, the petitioner is not entitled to compassionate appointment as per the scheme.

6. I have considered the submissions made by the learned counsel on either side.

7. I have considered the entire issues including the validity of G.O.Ms.No.165, Labour & Employment Department, dated 30.02.2010 in detail in my order dated 13.04.2015 in W.P.No.10565 of 2015 [R.GOVINDAMMAL v. THE PRINCIPAL SECRETARY & ORS] and held that G.O.Ms.No.165 dated 30.02.2010, declining to provide compassionate appointment to married daughter is violative of the provisions of the Constitution. In that order, I have also considered the judgments in 2008 (5) CTC 686 [G.Girija v. The Assistant Director (Panchayats), Kancheepuram District and (2013) 8 MLJ 684 [Krishnaveni v. Superintending Engineer, Kadamparai Electricity Generation Block, Coimbatore District], relied on by the learned counsel for the petitioner. It is useful to extract paragraphs 20 to 22 & 26 to 29 of the order dated 13.04.2015 in W.P.No.10565 of 2015, which are extracted hereunder:

"20. Thus, Constitution makes it clear that law could be made giving certain concession to women. But women cannot be deprived of certain rights, while the same are extended to men. Hence, G.O.Ms.560 L & E Department, dated 03.08.1977, which deprives compassionate appointment to married daughters is unconstitutional in the light of Preamble to Constitution and Articles 14,15,16, 39(a), 51(a)(k), 243D (3) and 343T(3) of the Constitution.

21. Later, the Government made certain improvements to G.O.Ms.No.560 by issuing G.O.Ms.No.155 Labout and Employment Department, dated 16.07.1993. The said Government Order i.e, G.O.Ms.No.155 provides compassionate appointment to daughters of a Government servant, if the daughter was abandoned by her husband or a divorcee or a widow. That is, apart from unmarried daughters, G.O.Ms.No.155 has included certain categories of women to claim compassionate appointment. However, discriminatory treatment was not removed in total, i.e, while marriage is not a condition prescribed in the matter of providing compassionate appointment to sons of a deceased Government Servant, the same was placed as a condition in the case of daughters.

22. Now a further improvement is made in the latest Government Order in G.O.Ms.No.165 dated 30.08.2010. As per the said Government Order, the married daughter could also claim compassionate appointment, if she was unmarried at the time of making application. In the said Government Order, it is stated that taking into account the decisions of this Court, such relaxation was granted in providing compassionate appointment to the married daughters, who got married subsequent to the death of the father and more particularly after making application for compassionate appointment.

26. In the decision in Krishnaveni's case reported in (2013) 8 MLJ 684, I had an occasion to consider the claim made by married daughter for compassionate appointment, when the same was rejected by the State. Relying on my earlier judgments in W.P.(MD) No.5183 of 2013 (M.Sudha vs. the District Collector, Thanjavur District) and W.P.(MD)No.8686 of 2011, I held in categorical terms in (2013) 8 MLJ 684 that if marriage is not a bar in the case of son, the same yardstick shall be applied in the case of a daughter also. It is relevant to extract paragraph 6, which is as follows:-

"6. In similar circumstances, the matter was considered by me in W.P.(MD) No.5183 of 2013 (M.Sudha vs. the District Collector, Thanjavur District), and I set aside the similar impugned order and issued direction to the respondent therein to consider the case of the petitioner therein for compassionate appointment, if the petitioner therein was otherwise eligible for appointment. In fact, in the said judgment, I followed the earlier judgment of mine in W.P.(MD) No.8686 of 2011. The relevant paragraph 5 of the aforesaid judgment is extracted hereunder:

"5. As rightly contended by the learned counsel for the petitioner, the matter is squarely covered by a decision dated 2.7.2012 rendered by me in W.P.(MD) No.8686 of 2011. Paragraph 9 of the judgment is extracted hereunder:

9. As stated above, if marriage is not a bar in the case of son, the same yardstick shall be applied in the case of a daughter also. At this juncture, it is relevant to take note of the statute, namely the Maintenance and Welfare of Parents and Senior Citizens Act, 2007 which places equal duty on both the son and daughter to take care of the parents at the old age. Therefore, in the case of death of the parents, there cannot be any unequal treatment among the children based on sex. Further, as rightly contended by the learned counsel for the petitioner, the judgment of this Court reported in 2008 5 CTC 685 (G.Girija vs. Assistant Director (Panchayats) Kancheepuram, Kancheepuram District) applies to the facts of this case. In the said case, the Government servant died on 26.2.1991. The daughter got married on 10.9.2006. She gave an application for compassionate appointment on 2.6.1997. This court quashed the order declining to give compassionate appointment holding that there cannot be any discrimination between sons and daughters in the case of giving compassionate appointment. The said judgment squarely applies to the facts of this case. Therefore, I have no hesitation to quash the impugned order. Accordingly, the impugned order is quashed and a direction is issued to the respondents to consider the claim of the petitioner for compassionate appointment without reference to the marriage of the petitioner and to pass appropriate orders in the light of this judgment within a period of eight weeks from the date of receipt of a copy of this order."

27. In Krishnaveni's case (cited supra), I have referred to the statute, namely the Maintenance and Welfare of Parents and Senior Citizens Act, 2007, which places equal duty on both the son and daughter to take care of the parents at the old age and held that the daughters shall be treated alike the sons in providing compassionate appointment. Thus, in the matter of providing compassionate appointment, no distinction shall be made between a son and a daughter.

28. The case on hand is a classic case, wherein, the deceased Government servant has no male issue. Nowadays, it is a common thing that a family have a single child ; either male or female. Thus, if a Government servant has only daughter, as in this case, the widow of the Government servant cannot be stated that her married daughter could not be provided compassionate appointment, particularly, when she has to solely rely on her daughter. As stated above, Maintenance and Welfare of Parents and Senior Citizens Act, also now places equal responsibility on both the son and daughter to take care of their parents.

29. Hence, for all the aforesaid reasons, the impugned order is quashed and a direction is issued to the first respondent to provide compassionate appointment to the petitioner, if she is otherwise eligible, without reference to marriage. Such exercise shall be undertaken within a period of eight weeks from the date of receipt of a copy of this order. A direction is issued to Chief Secretary of the Tamil Nadu Government, to suitable modify the Government Order in G.O.Ms.165 Labour and Employment Department, dated 30.08.2010 in the light of the observations made above. "

8.As far as this case is concerned, both the children of the deceased Government servant are daughters and both of them got married before the death of the Government servant and on the ground of marriage, compassionate appointment cannot be denied to the petitioner.

9.For the aforesaid reasons, the impugned order is quashed and a direction is issued to the first respondent to provide compassionate appointment to the petitioner, if she is otherwise eligible, without reference to marriage. Such exercise shall be undertaken within a period of eight weeks from the date of receipt of a copy of this order.

10.The writ petition stands allowed to the extent indicated above. No costs. Consequently, connected Miscellaneous Petition is closed.
