Civil Revision No.4718 of 2013

1. There can be no view of this court expressed which is against the Supreme Court's ruling. The Supreme Court in Om Parkash Versus Ashwani Kumar Bassi-2010 (4) RCR (Civil) 163 says that if the leave to defend is declined, an order of eviction must be a matter of course. It is a case where the statement was attempting to file an application for leave to defend beyond the statutory period which was filed with a delay of 19 days. There is no scope for condonation of delay. Petition is dismissed. Eviction shall be carried forthwith.

2. The counsel for the State submits that there are compromise talks. The compromise talks may proceed after the order but it cannot fetter the court from passing the order that it does.
