At the very outset, the learned counsel intends to withdraw the instant petition, to enable the petitioners to take/urge all the points contained in it during the course of hearing of the appeal.

Dismissed as withdrawn with the aforesaid liberty, as prayed for.

Needless to mention that the petitioners would be at liberty to bring on record the factum of compromise and the appellate Court, of course, would be well advised to take the same into deep consideration as mitigating circumstances and to decide the appeal, in accordance with law.
