On February 02, 2015, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the matter had been finally settled between the parties. However, time was sought to verify the same. Today, again an adjournment has been prayed.

In view of the statement made on February 02, 2015, we dispose of this matter as infructuous having been settled between the parties.

However, liberty is granted to the appellant to file an application for revival of the instant appeal in case the available instructions received by the counsel are found to be incorrect.
