The application is allowed.

CRL.M.C. No.3561/2015

1. By way of this petition filed under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, petitioners seek quashing of FIR No.216/2010 registered at Police Station Adarsh Nagar, Delhi, for the offences punishable under Sections 324/342/34 IPC and Sections 27/54/59 Arms Act, and the consequential proceedings emanating therefrom against them.
2. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioners submits that the aforesaid case was registered on the complaint of respondent No.2, namely, Ramesh Chand, as a scuffle took place due to some misunderstanding, wherein respondent No. 2 has received injuries. After investigation, chargesheet has been filed by the police. Meanwhile, with the intervention of the common friends and the respectable members of the locality, the respondent No. 2 has amicably settled the disputes with the petitioners vide Compromise Deed dated 28.09.2014. It is submitted that both the parties are neighbours and reside in the same locality, however, due to some confusion, the incident in question was occurred. Thus, respondent No.2 has no objection if the present petition is allowed.
3. Respondent No.2 is personally present in the Court and has been duly identified by the Investigating Officer ASI Naresh Pal of Police Station Adarsh Nagar. The respondent No.2 does not dispute the submissions made by the learned counsel for the petitioners and submits that the matter stands settled between them. Therefore, to maintain peace and harmony in the locality, he does not wish to pursue this case further against the petitioners and has no objection if the present petition is allowed.

4. Learned Additional Public Prosecutor appearing on behalf of the State submits that though chargesheet has been filed by the police, however, case is at the initial stage as cognizance is yet to be taken. Since the parties have amicably settled the matter, therefore, the State has no objection if the present petition is allowed. However, submits that FIR in question pertains to the year 2010, therefore, while allowing the present petition, heavy cost may be imposed upon the petitioners.

5. In view of the overall circumstances; and looking to the pronouncements of the Supreme Court in Gian Singh Vs. State of Punjab and Another¹, which has referred to a number of matters for the proposition that even a non-compoundable offence can also be quashed on the ground of a settlement agreement between the offender and the victim, if the circumstances so warrant; and also Narinder Singh & Ors. Vs. State of Punjab & Anr.², wherein the Supreme Court held as follows:-

“29. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we sum up and lay down the following principles by which the High Court would be guided in giving adequate treatment to the settlement between the parties and exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code while accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings or refusing to accept the settlement with direction to continue with the criminal proceedings:

29.1 Power conferred under Section 482 of the Code is to be distinguished from the power which lies in the Court to compound the offences under Section 320 of the power under Section 482 of the Code while accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings or refusing to accept the settlement with direction to continue with the criminal proceedings:

29.1 Power conferred under Section 482 of the Code is to be distinguished from the power which lies in the Court to compound the offences under Section 320 of the Code. No doubt, under Section 482 of the Code, the High Court has inherent power to quash the criminal proceedings even in those cases which are not compoundable, where the parties have settled the matter between themselves. However, this power is to be exercised sparingly and with caution.

29.2. When the parties have reached the settlement and on that basis petition for quashing the criminal proceedings is filed, the guiding factor in such cases would be to secure:

(i) ends of justice, or

(ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any court.

While exercising the power the High Court is to form an opinion on either of the aforesaid two objectives.

29.3. Such a power is not to be exercised in those prosecutions which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Similarly, for the offences alleged to have been committed under special statute like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender.

29.4. On the other hand, those criminal cases having overwhelmingly and predominantly civil character, particularly those arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes should be quashed when the parties have resolved their entire disputes among themselves.

29.5. While exercising its powers, the High Court is to examine as to whether the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of criminal cases would put the accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal cases.

29.6. Offences under Section 307 IPC would fall in the category of heinous and serious offences and therefore are to be generally treated as crime against the society and not against the individual alone. However, the High Court would not rest its decision merely because there is a mention of Section 307 IPC in the FIR or the charge is framed under this provision. It would be open to the High Court to examine as to whether incorporation of Section 307 IPC is there for the sake of it or the prosecution has collected sufficient evidence, which if proved, would lead to proving the charge under Section 307 IPC. For this purpose, it would be open to the High Court to go by the nature of injury sustained, whether such injury is inflicted on the vital/delegate parts of the body, nature of weapons used, etc. Medical report in respect of injuries suffered by the victim can generally be the guiding factor. On the basis of this prima facie analysis, the High Court can examine as to whether there is a strong possibility of conviction or the chances of conviction are remote and bleak. In the former case it can refuse to accept the settlement and quash the criminal proceedings whereas in the latter case it would be permissible for the High Court to accept the plea compounding the offence based on complete settlement between the parties. At this stage, the Court can also be swayed by the fact that the settlement between the parties is going to result in harmony between them which may improve their future relationship.

29.7. While deciding whether to exercise its power under Section 482 of the Code or not, timings of settlement play a crucial role. Those cases where the settlement is arrived at immediately after the alleged commission of offence and the matter is still under investigation, the High Court may be liberal in accepting the settlement to quash the criminal proceedings/investigation. It is because of the reason that at this stage the investigation is still on and even the charge-sheet has not been filed. Likewise, those cases where the charge is framed but the evidence is yet to start or the evidence is still at infancy stage, the High Court can show benevolence in exercising its powers favourably, but after prima facie assessment of the circumstances/material mentioned above. On the other hand, where the prosecution evidence is almost complete or after the conclusion of the evidence the matter is at the stage of argument, normally the High Court should refrain from exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code, as in such cases the trial court would be in a position to decide the case finally on merits and to come to a conclusion as to whether the offence under Section 307 IPC is committed or not. Similarly, in those cases where the conviction is already recorded by the trial court and the matter is at the appellate stage before the High Court, mere compromise between the parties would not be a ground to accept the same resulting in acquittal of the offender who has already been convicted by the trial court. Here charge is proved under Section 307 IPC and conviction is already recorded of a heinous crime and, therefore, there is no question of sparing a convict found guilty of such a crime.”

6. Both the parties who are present in the Court today, approbate the aforesaid settlement dated 28.09.2014 and undertake to remain bound by the same.

7. Therefore, in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Gian Singh (supra) and Narinder Singh (supra), considering the settlement arrived at between the parties and the fact that the respondent No.2/complainant does not want to support the prosecution case, and the statement of the learned Additional Public Prosecutor for the State, I am of the considered opinion that this matter deserves to be given a quietus as continuance of proceedings arising out of the FIR in question would be an exercise in futility.

8. Consequently, FIR No.216/2010 registered at Police Station Adarsh Nagar, Delhi, for the offences punishable under Sections 324/342/34 IPC and Sections 27/54/59 Arms Act, and all proceedings emanating therefrom are hereby quashed qua the petitioners.

9. Before parting with the order, I find force in the submissions of learned Additional Public Prosecutor qua imposition of cost upon the petitioners, as because of the FIR in question, the government machinery has been used and precious public time and money has been consumed. However, the petitioners No. 1, 3 and 4 have come forward to contribute a sum of Rs.25,000/- (Twenty Five Thousand) each for the welfare purposes.

10. Accordingly, the petitioner No.1 is directed to deposit a sum of Rs.25,000/- (Twenty Five Thousand) in favour of the Delhi High Court Legal Services Committee and petitioners No. 3 and 4 are directed to pay a sum of Rs.25,000/- (Twenty Five Thousand) each in favour of the respondent No.2/complainant within two weeks. Proof thereof shall be placed on record under intimation to the concerned Investigating Officer.

11. In view of the above, the present petition is allowed.

12. A copy of this order be given dasti to the learned counsel for the parties.
