CORAM:

HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESH KAIT

SURESH KAIT, J. (Oral)

1. By way of the present petition filed under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, petitioners seek directions thereby quashing of FIR No.126/2013 registered at Police Station Roop Nagar, Delhi, for the offence punishable under Section 507 IPC read with Section 66A of Information Technology Act, 2000 and the consequential proceedings emanating therefrom against them.

2. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioners submits that the aforesaid case and case FIR No. 232/2009 for the offences punishable under Sections 498A/406/34 IPC at the same police station was registered on the complaint of respondent No.2, namely, Ms. Pooja Saxena against petitioners. And case FIR Nos. 109/2013 for the offences punishable under Sections 379/380/466/467/471/120-B/34 IPC and 13/2012 for the offences punishable under Sections 467/468/471/474/477/120-B IPC were registered against respondent no. 2 / complainant at PS-Subzi Mandi on the complaint of the petitioner no.1. Thereafter, both the parties have settled their disputes vide settlement dated 27.01.2015 and consequent thereto, marriage between petitioner no.1 and respondent no. 2 has been dissolved vide decree of divorce dated 31.08.2015. As per the settlement, petitioners agreed to pay an amount of Rs.40,00,000/- as full and final settlement. Out of which Rs.35,00,000/- has been already been paid and Rs.5,00,000/- is to be paid today in the Court.

3. Ld. Counsel further submits that FIRs mentioned above registered against the complainant / respondent no. 2 have already been quashed by the Coordinate Bench of this Court today itself. Thus, since the parties have inter se settled their disputes, respondent no. 2 is no more interested to pursue the case further against the petitioners.

4. Respondent No.2 is personally present in the Court alongwith her counsel named above. For her identification she has produced Voter Identity Card being no. NCR1488527 issued by Election Commission of India. Original seen and returned. Ld. Counsel on instructions does not dispute whatever stated by the counsel for the petitioners and submits that all the cases mentioned above have been settled inter se between the parties and consequent thereto marriage between petitioner no. 1 and respondent no. 2 has been dissolved vide decree of divorce dated 31.08.2015. He further submits that as per the settlement, an amount of Rs.35,00,000/- has already been paid and remaining amount of Rs.5,00,000/- is to be paid today in the Court. However, since the DDs of the said amount have become staled, same have been returned to the petitioner no.1, who is personally present in the Court. The said petitioner has undertaken to hand over a cheque of Rs.5,00,000/- to the respondent no. 2 during the course of the day. Ld. Counsel submits that since the matter has been settled between the parties and the petitioner is agreed to pay an amount of Rs.5,00,000/- today itself by way of cheque, respondent no. 2 has no objection, if the present petition is allowed subject to realization of the cheque.

5. On the other hand, Id. Additional Public Prosecutor appearing on behalf of the State submits that after investigation, police has filed the chargesheet. However, the charges are yet to be framed. He further submits that the present matter is a matrimonial one and since the respondent No.2 has settled all the disputes with the petitioners and does not wish to pursue the case further against them, no purpose would be served if the petitioners are directed to face trial. Therefore, the State has no objection, if the present petition is allowed.

6. It is pertinent to mention here that case FIR No. 232/2009 for the offences punishable under Sections 498A/406/34 IPC registered at PS-Roop Nagar against the petitioners has already been quashed in Crl. M.C. 4091/2015.

7. Under the circumstances and looking to the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Gian Singh Vs. State of Punjab and Another (2012) 10 SCC 303, wherein the Apex Court has referred to a number of matters for the proposition that even a non-compoundable offence can also be quashed on the ground of a settlement agreement between the offender and the victim, if the circumstances so warrant; by observing as under:

“58.However, certain offences which overwhelmingly and predominantly bear civil flavour having arisen out of civil, mercantile, commercial, financial, partnership or such like transactions or the offences arising out of matrimony, particularly relating to dowry, etc. or the family dispute, where the wrong is basically to the victim and the offender and the victim have settled all disputes between them amicably, irrespective of the fact that such offences have not been made compoundable, the High Court may within the framework of its inherent power, quash the criminal proceeding or criminal complaint or FIR if it is satisfied that on the face of such settlement, there is hardly any likelihood of the offender being convicted and by not quashing the criminal proceedings, justice shall be casualty and ends of justice shall be defeated.”

8. While recognizing the need of amicable resolution of disputes in cases like the instant one, the aforesaid dictum has been affirmed by the Apex Court in a recent judgment in Narinder Singh & Ors. Vs. State of Punjab & Anr. 2014 6 SCC 466. The pertinent observations of the Apex Court are as under:-

29. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we sum up and lay down the following principles by which the High Court would be guided in giving adequate treatment to the settlement between the parties and exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code while accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings or refusing to accept the settlement with direction to continue with the criminal proceedings:

29.1 Power conferred under Section 482 of the Code is to be distinguished from the power which lies in the Court to compound the offences under Section 320 of the Code. No doubt, under Section 482 of the Code, the High Court has inherent power to quash the criminal proceedings even in those cases which are not compoundable, where the parties have settled the matter between themselves. However, this power is to be exercised sparingly and with caution.

29.2. When the parties have reached the settlement and on that basis petition for quashing the criminal proceedings is filed, the guiding factor in such cases would be to secure:

(i) ends of justice, or

(ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any court.

While exercising the power the High Court is to form an opinion on either of the aforesaid two objectives.

29.3. Such a power is not to be exercised in those prosecutions which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Similarly, for the offences alleged to have been committed under special statute like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender.

29.4. On the other hand, those criminal cases having overwhelmingly and predominantly civil character, particularly those arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes should be quashed when the parties have resolved their entire disputes among themselves.

29.5. While exercising its powers, the High Court is to examine as to whether the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of criminal cases would put the accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal cases.

29.6. Offences under Section 307 IPC would fall in the category of heinous and serious offences and therefore are to be generally treated as crime against the society and not against the individual alone. However, the High Court would not rest its decision merely because there is a mention of Section 307 IPC in the FIR or the charge is framed under this provision. It would be open to the High Court to examine as to whether incorporation of Section 307 IPC is there for the sake of it or the prosecution has collected sufficient evidence, which if proved, would lead to proving the charge under Section 307 IPC. For this purpose, it would be open to the High Court to go by the nature of injury sustained, whether such injury is inflicted on the vital/delegate parts of the body, nature of weapons used, etc. Medical report in respect of injuries suffered by the victim can generally be the guiding factor. On the basis of this prima facie analysis, the High Court can examine as to whether there is a strong possibility of conviction or the chances of conviction are remote and bleak. In the former case it can refuse to accept the settlement and quash the criminal proceedings whereas in the latter case it would be permissible for the High Court to accept the plea compounding the offence based on complete settlement between the parties. At this stage, the Court can also be swayed by the fact that the settlement between the parties is going to result in harmony between them which may improve their future relationship.

29.7. While deciding whether to exercise its power under Section 482 of the Code or not, timings of settlement play a crucial role. Those cases where the settlement is arrived at immediately after the alleged commission of offence and the matter is still under investigation, the High Court may be liberal in accepting the settlement to quash the criminal proceedings/investigation. It is because of the reason that at this stage the investigation is still on and even the charge-sheet has not been filed. Likewise, those cases where the charge is framed but the evidence is yet to start or the evidence is still at infancy stage, the High Court can show benevolence in exercising its powers favourably, but after prima facie assessment of the circumstances/material mentioned above. On the other hand, where the prosecution evidence is almost complete or after the conclusion of the evidence the matter is at the stage of argument, normally the High Court should refrain from exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code, as in such cases the trial court would be in a position to decide the case finally on merits and to come to a conclusion as to whether the offence under Section 307 IPC is committed or not. Similarly, in those cases where the conviction is already recorded by the trial court and the matter is at the appellate stage before the High Court, mere compromise between the parties would not be a ground to accept the same resulting in acquittal of the offender who has already been convicted by the trial court. Here charge is proved under Section 307 IPC and conviction is already recorded of a heinous crime and, therefore, there is no question of sparing a convict found guilty of such a crime.”

9. Both the parties who are present in the Court today, approbate the aforesaid settlement dated 27.01.2015 and undertake to remain bound by the same.

10. Keeping in view the settlement arrived at between the parties, statement of respondent no.2, ld. APP for the State and the settled legal position FIR No.126/2013 registered at Police Station Roop Nagar, Delhi, for the offence punishable under Section 507 IPC read with Section 66A of Information Technology Act, 2000 and the consequential proceedings emanating therefrom are hereby quashed against the petitioners subject to clearance of the cheque of Rs.5,00,000/-.

11. Needless to state that if the said cheque is not clear, respondent no. 2 will be at liberty to approach the Court.

12. In view of the above, the present petition is allowed with no order as to costs.
