Order on Board

Per Deepak Gupta, Chief Justice

21.12.2016

1. This contempt petition is totally misconceived. The Labour Court passed an order directing reinstatement of the petitioner. This order was set aside by the learned Single Judge in Writ Petition (L) No. 53/2012. The Division Bench set aside the order of the learned Single Judge and affirmed the order of the Labour Court. Therefore, execution proceedings, if any, have to be carried out to implement the order, in the Labour Court in accordance with law. No contempt petition lies in such a case.

2. Needless to say that the petitioner is at liberty to execute the orders before the Labour Court.
3. The contempt petition is disposed of accordingly.
