DARSHAN SINGH J. (ORAL)

CM-6975-CII-2016

This application has been moved for restoration of the present revision petition. Learned counsel for respondent No.1 has no objection in restoring the main revision petition.

Thus, in view of the reasons mentioned in the application and the concession made at bar by learned counsel for respondent No.1, the present application is hereby allowed. The revision petition stands restored at its original number.

Learned counsel for the petitioner informs that the evidence of the plaintiff-petitioner is already over. Now, the case is listed for the defendant's evidence before the learned trial Court. He states that the present revision petition may be disposed of by giving the direction to the learned trial Court to expeditiously disposed of the suit.

So, the present revision petition is hereby disposed of with a direction to learned trial Court to make every possible effort, by avoiding the unnecessarily adjournments, to expeditiously disposed of the suit.
