Surya Kant, J. (Oral)

The petitioner has laid challenge to the acquisition of her land/property described in para No.2 of the writ petition and situated within the revenue estate of Village Khandsa, District Gurgaon. The said acquisition was made vide Award dated 27.01.2006.

On July 20, 2006, interim stay was granted in the same terms as was granted in CWP No.1058 of 2006 which is still operative. As a resultant effect, the petitioner is in continuous physical possession of the land.

In the light of the later development, namely, the Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013 (for short, 'the 2013 Act') having come into force w.e.f. 01.01.2014, the additional question which arises for consideration is whether the impugned acquisition shall be deemed to have lapsed under Section 24(2) of the 2013 Act?

It is conceded position that the petitioner is still in possession of the acquired land and compensation amount has not been paid or deposited with the Reference Court in accordance with Section 31 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (for short, 'the 1894 Act'). Since the petitioner is in continuous possession of the acquired property for a period of five years from the date of passing of Award and before the new Act (2013 Act) came into force w.e.f. 01.01.2014 and neither the compensation amount has been paid or deposited within that period as per the law, there can be no escape but to hold that the impugned acquisition has lapsed under Section 24(2) of the 2013 Act.

For the detailed reasons assigned in the order dated 27.10.2016 passed in CWP No.17464 of 2007 (Satnam Singh and another versus The State of Haryana and others) and connected matters, the instant writ petition is allowed and it is declared that acquisition of the petitioner's land vide Award dated 27.01.2006 is deemed to have lapsed.

Having held so, we are surely of the view that since Section 24 (2) of 2013 Act itself, in so many words, contemplates the possibility of re-acquisition of the land/property in respect whereof the previous acquisition has lapsed, it is necessary to direct the petitioner to maintain status quo re: creation of third party rights; to keep the land/property free from all types of incumbrances and not to change the nature of land/property for a period of one year so that meanwhile the respondent-State may, if such property is needed for a “public purpose”, again acquire it. Such a direction is necessitated also for the reason that in numerous cases State or its agencies have taken possession in part and development works have been executed except over that land/property in litigation. Those development works ought to be completed in public interest and the only consequence of lapsing of previous acquisition, mostly due to fault of the Government Officers/ Officials, would be that the owners of such land/property will be entitled to compensation and other benefits admissible under the 2013 Act.
