

122 R.A. No.295 of 2016 in
CWP No. 18699 of 2016

Sham Singh Vs. State of Haryana & ors.

Present: Mr. KS Dhaliwal, Advocate, for the applicant.

Heard learned counsel on the review application.

Having regard to his submissions that the Patwari was not at fault in the matter of entering mutation and on reconsideration I find that in the second paragraph of the order containing the following observations:-

“His story against his transfer is woven on his refusal to mutate certain lands belonging to the Harijan Cooperative Society village Didvada, Safidon under a temporary injunction issued by the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Safidon on 29.05.2015 in civil suit 113 of 20.05.2016 in case titled Jai Nara etc. v. Pala Ram etc. ordering status quo, then he had no other option but to lawfully enter the mutation entry in further action of the work of Suresh Kumar and no person superior to him in office or some third person wanting to appropriate land allotted to the Society, would expect grant of mutation so long as the orders of status-quo passed by the Civil Court continue in operation.”

The said observations were not necessary in determining the case and accordingly, the aforesaid words and sentences placed within inverted commas would stand expunged from the order and the consideration confined to the transfer order alone. The rest order will hold.

Accordingly, the review application stands dismissed.
