STATE OF NCT DELHI & ANR

..... Respondent

Through: Mr. Rajat Katyal, Additional Public
Prosecutor for the State

CORAM:

HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S.TEJI

P.S.TEJI, J.

1. The present petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been filed by the petitioner, namely, Sh. Jeet Singh for quashing of FIR No.137/2010 dated 16.06.2010, under Sections 420/467/468/471/34 IPC registered at Police Station Bawana on the basis of the settlement agreement executed at Delhi Mediation Centre, Rohini District Courts, Delhi between the petitioner and respondent no.2, namely, Sh. Raj Singh on 09.09.2015.

2. Learned Additional Public Prosecutor for respondent-State submitted that the respondent no.2, present in the Court has been identified to be the complainant/first informant in the FIR in question by SI Uday Singh.

3. The factual matrix of the present case is that the FIR in question was lodged by the complainant on the allegation that the father of the complainant was having 1/6 share in the ancestral agricultural land comprised in Khasra No. 96(1-10), 97(1-1), 100(01-19), 108 (1-2), 109 (0-11), 112 (1-2), 113(0-4), 116(1-0) total measuring 7 bigha and 9 biswas. The brother of the complainant to grab the said land moved an application dated 08.06.2005 thereby falsely claiming that Sh. Mukhtiar Singh (father of the complainant) died on 23.04.2005 and there being no heir, he acquired the property through mutation. The IO however reported that the matter pertains to jurisdiction of PS Alipur. Counsel for the complainant however submitted that the land in dispute was situated in village Bajitpur which was within the jurisdiction of PS Bawana, Delhi.

Thereafter, on 07.09.2015 the petitioner filed an application under Section 438 Cr.P.C. for anticipatory bail and the same was heard and the matter was referred to the mediation centre, Rohini Court. Thereafter, the respondent no.2 and petitioner amicable settled all their disputes.

4. Respondent no. 2 present in the Court submitted that the dispute between the parties has been amicably resolved. As per the settlement agreement, it has been agreed that the petitioner shall handover the land measuring 100 sq. yards to respondent no.2 out of the land situated in Revenue Estate Village Bajit Pur Thakran, PS Bawana measuring about 1264 sq. yards. It is also agreed that the petitioner shall prepare a Relinquish Deed in favour of respondent no.2 on or before 29.09.2015. It is also agreed that respondent no.2 shall cooperate at the time of compounding/quashing of the FIR in question before this Court and said petition shall be filed on or before December, 2015. It is also agreed that after the fulfillment of the terms and conditions of the present agreement, respondent no.2 shall not raise any objection on the bail application of the accused. It is also agreed that after the compliance of the terms of the present agreement, there shall be no grievance/dispute left between the parties qua the present cause of action and that none of the parties shall file any other case/complaint etc. against each other in future qua the same. It is also agreed that the parties shall bear their own costs of litigation. Respondent no. 2 affirmed the contents of the aforesaid settlement. All the disputes and differences have been resolved through mutual consent. Now no dispute with petitioner survives and so, the proceedings arising out of the FIR in question be brought to an end. Statement of the respondent no.2 has been recorded in this regard in which he stated that he has entered into a compromise with the petitioner and has settled all the disputes with him. He further stated that he has no objection if the FIR in question is quashed.

5. In Gian Singh v. State of Punjab (2012) 10 SCC 303 Apex Court has recognized the need of amicable resolution of disputes in cases like the instant one, by observing as under:-

“61. In other words, the High Court must consider whether it would be unfair or contrary to the interest of justice to continue with the criminal proceedings or continuation of criminal proceedings would tantamount to abuse of process of law despite settlement and compromise between the victim and the wrongdoer and whether to secure the ends of justice, it is appropriate that criminal case is put to an end and if the answer to the above question(s) is in the affirmative, the High Court shall be well within its jurisdiction to quash the criminal proceedings.”

6. The aforesaid dictum stands reiterated by the Apex Court in a recent judgment in Narinder Singh v. State of Punjab (2014) 6 SCC 466. The relevant observations of the Apex Court in Narinder Singh (Supra) are as under:-

“29. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we sum up and lay down the following principles by which the High Court would be guided in giving adequate treatment to the settlement between the parties and exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code while accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings or refusing to accept the settlement with direction to continue with the criminal proceedings:

29.1 Power conferred under Section 482 of the Code is to be distinguished from the power which lies in the Court to compound the offences under Section 320 of the Code. No doubt, under Section 482 of the Code, the High Court has inherent power to quash the criminal proceedings even in those cases which are not compoundable, where the parties have settled the matter between themselves. However, this power is to be exercised sparingly and with caution.

29.2. When the parties have reached the settlement and on that basis petition for quashing the criminal proceedings is filed, the guiding factor in such cases would be to secure:

- (i) ends of justice, or
- (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any court.

While exercising the power the High Court is to form an opinion on either of the aforesaid two objectives.

29.3. Such a power is not to be exercised in those prosecutions which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Similarly, for the offences alleged to have been committed under special statute like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender.

29.4. On the other hand, those criminal cases having overwhelmingly and predominantly civil character, particularly those arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes should be quashed when the parties have resolved their entire disputes among themselves.

7. The inherent powers of the High Court ought to be exercised to prevent the abuse of process of law and to secure the ends of justice. The respondent no.2 agreed to the quashing of the FIR in question and stated that the matter has been settled out of his own free will. As the matter has been settled and compromised amicably, so, there would be an extraordinary delay in the process of law if the legal proceedings between the parties are carried on. So, this Court is of the considered opinion that this is a fit case to invoke the jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to prevent the abuse of process of law and to secure the ends of justice.

8. The incorporation of inherent power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is meant to deal with the situation in the absence of express provision of law to secure the ends of justice such as, where the process is abused or misused; where the ends of justice cannot be secured; where the process of law is used for unjust or unlawful object; to avoid the causing of harassment to any person by using the provision of Cr.P.C. or to avoid the delay of the legal process in the delivery of justice. Whereas, the inherent power is not to be exercised to circumvent the express provisions of law.

9. It is settled law that the inherent power of the High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. should be used sparingly. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Maharashtra through CBI v. Vikram Anatrai Doshi and Ors. MANU/SC/0842/2014 and in the case of Inder Singh Goswami v. State of Uttaranchal MANU/SC/0808/2009 has observed that powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. must be exercised sparingly, carefully and with great caution. Only when the Court comes to the conclusion that there would be manifest injustice or there would be abuse of the process of the Court if such power is not exercised, Court would quash the proceedings.

10. It is a well settled law that where the High Court is convinced that the offences are entirely personal in nature and therefore do not affect public peace or tranquillity and where it feels that quashing of such proceedings on account of compromise would bring about peace and would secure ends of justice, it should not hesitate to quash them. In such cases, pursuing prosecution would be waste of time and energy. Non-compoundable offences are basically an obstruction in entering into compromise. In certain cases, the main offence is compoundable but the connected offences are not. In the case of B.S. Joshi and others v. State of Haryana and another 2003 (4) SCC 675 the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that even though the provisions of Section 320 Cr.P.C. would not apply to such offences which are not compoundable, it did not limit or affect the powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. The Hon'ble Apex Court laid down that if for the purpose of securing the ends of justice, quashing of FIR becomes necessary, section 320 Cr.P.C. would not be a bar to the exercise of power of quashing. In the nutshell, the Hon'ble Apex Court justified the exercise of powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to quash the proceedings to secure the ends of justice in view of the special facts and circumstances of the case, even where the offences were non-compoundable.

In the light of the aforesaid, this Court is of the view that notwithstanding the fact the offences under Sections 467/468/471 are non-compoundable, there should be no impediment in quashing the FIR under these sections, if the Court is otherwise satisfied that the facts and circumstances of the case so warrant.

11. In the facts and circumstances of this case and in view of statement made by respondent no.2, the FIR in question warrants to be put to an end and proceedings emanating thereupon need to be quashed.

12. Accordingly, this petition is allowed and FIR No.137/2010 dated 16.06.2010, under Sections 420/467/468/471/34 IPC registered at Police Station Bawana and the proceedings emanating therefrom are quashed against the petitioner.

13. This petition is accordingly disposed of.
