CORAM: HONOURABLE MR. JUSTICE NAVANITI PRASAD SINGH

ORAL ORDER

03 18-01-2017 These cases relate to Magadh University. The Writ Court had issued directions for payment of arrears forthwith. Payments having not been made, these contempt proceedings were initiated. One of the main grievance of the petitioners were that as per the notification issued by the State Government itself with regard to revision of pay-scale, certain arrears were to be paid but their payments were deferred. The deferred payments were to be cleared by 31st of March, 2015, as per the government notification, which fact was noted in the judgment of this Court as well. Not only these payments were not made within the notified date, upon institution of these proceedings, they were not made.

Upon notice by this Court, ultimately, recently, these payments have been made. Therefore, this Court has no option but to hold that the respondent University has been in contempt in not paying the amount, as ordered, within the time stipulated. There has been delayed compliance.

In view of the aforesaid fact of admitted delayed compliance, it is directed that all the petitioners would be entitled to delayed payment interest at the rate of 6% per annum from the date payment was due till the date payment is made. This calculation and payment of delayed payment, interest has to be paid by the University within one month from today, failing which the Vice-Chancellor/Registrar/Finance Officer of the University would be personally liable.

With these observations and directions, these applications stand disposed of.

(Navaniti Prasad Singh, J.)
