ORAL ORDER

5 15-09-2017 In this case notice was issued to opposite party no.2.

However, the opposite party no.2 has refused to accept the notice and as such this court is constraint to dispose of the case.

Petitioner has filed this application for quashing the order taking cognizance dated 20.12.2013.

We are in 2017 but neither counsel for the petitioner nor State is in a position to apprise this court about latest position of the case.

In the aforesaid facts and circumstances, there is no point to keep the matter pending. Suffice is to observe, if the case has not reached to its logical end, the court below is directed to expedite the disposal of the case without granting unnecessary adjournment to the parties and conclude the same within a period of six months from today.

It goes without saying while deciding the case, the court below will look into the specific plea of the petitioner including lodging of the FIR in Phenhara P.S. Case No. 03 of 2011 before lodging the complainant leading to the order taking cognizance in the instant case.

With the aforesaid observation, the application stands disposed of.
