1. Learned advocate for the applicant refers to the contents of the application, particularly the ones contained in paragraph No.5 of the civil application and submits that these are the genuine reasons under which delay has been caused.

2. Learned advocate for the respondents Mr. Dighe purports to resist the application stating that there is no material to support said contentions, however, he is not in a position to challenge veracity of the contents by producing any credible material.

3. The delay does not appear to be inordinate. In the circumstances it would be expedient to condone the delay and have contest on merits.
