COMMON ORDER

The petitioners/defendants moved an application to re-open plaintiffs evidence and recall PW1 for further cross examination on the footing that on account of inadvertence, certain questions were omitted to be put to PW1 during the cross examination. The same was resisted by the respondent/plaintiff.

2. The Trial Court on a consideration of the case of both parties, found that no proper and valid reason has been given by the defendants to recall PW1. It was also found by the Trial Court that the application was moved by the defendant only to fill up the lacuna and the trial court accordingly rejected the applications preferred by the defendants.

3. I do not find any infirmity in the impugned orders passed by the Trial Court. Accordingly, the Civil Revision Petitions do not merit acceptance and are dismissed. Consequently connected the miscellaneous petition is closed. No costs.
