3.The case of the prosecution is that most of the above said cases, the petitioner break open the houses and committed theft of gold jewels, valuables and money and in some cases, the petitioner tried to break open and commit theft. On complaints, cases have been registered as against the petitioner in the above said crime numbers. Apart from the above cases, four previous cases are pending against the petitioner, out of which one case was registered for the offence 'murder for gain' and two cases were registered in Mumbai in similar nature and another one case was registered in Tirunelveli District for the similar nature of offence.

4.The learned counsel for the petitioner would submit that the petitioner is an innocent person and he did not commit any offence as alleged by the prosecution. He further submitted that these cases are put up by the police party in order to wreck vengeance against the petitioner and also he denied the four previous cases pending against the petitioner and none of the cases were filed by the respective police stations and that also false in nature. Hence, he prays for bail to the petitioner.

5. The learned Government Advocate (Crl. side) submitted that the petitioner is a habitual offender and he break open the houses and committed theft of gold jewels and money and in some cases, the petitioner tried to break open and commit theft. Apart from the above cases, four previous cases are pending against the petitioner, out of which one case was registered for the offence 'murder for gain' and two cases were registered in Mumbai in similar nature and another one case was registered in Tirunelveli District for the similar nature of offence. Totally 11 cases were pending against the petitioner. Hence, he vehemently objected to grant bail to the petitioner.

6. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case and also considering the gravity of offences committed by the petitioner and considering the previous cases pending against the petitioner, I am not inclined to grant bail to the petitioner. Accordingly, these Criminal Original Petitions are dismissed.
