DAYA CHAUDHARY, J. (Oral)

Learned counsel for respondent submits that order passed by this Court has been complied with, whereas learned counsel for petitioner submits that not only delay is there in compliance of order but in spite of interim order passed in favour of petitioner, notice was published for auction of the land of the petitioner.

Although, the land could not be auctioned but the intention of the respondent authority is quite clear and interim order has been violated. Accordingly, a cost of ₹10,000/- is imposed upon respondent to be paid to petitioner by way of demand draft within a period of one month.

However, the petitioner is at liberty to challenge the order passed subsequently.
