Learned State counsel submits that the writ petition be dismissed as not pressed as the respondent-workman has since been taken back in service after the workman gave up his claim regarding back wages. The respondent-workman present in Court states that it is correct that I have been taken back in service and I had given up my claim regarding back wages voluntarily and nothing more is due from the department to me in terms of the award.

In view of the above, this writ petition has, thus, been rendered infructuous and is disposed of as such.
