MAHESH GROVER, J. (Oral)

There is absolutely no reason to differ with the findings of the learned Single Judge. The husband of the appellant was dismissed from service in the year 1990 and the statutory appeal filed by him was dismissed in 1991. He died in 2014 and for all these years he did not challenge the order of dismissal passed in the appeal. In 2016 civil writ petition was filed by his wife questioning the dismissal of her husband. We are of the opinion that the writ proceedings have been rightly dismissed by the learned Single Judge on the ground of delay and laches, more particularly when the deceased himself did not raise this matter during his life time.

Consequently, the appeal is dismissed.

However, delay of 12 days in filing and 108 days in re-filing the appeal stands condoned for the reasons mentioned in the applications.
