vs.

Mr. A.V. Jain I/b A.V. Jain and Associates for the Respondents.

CORAM : M. S. SONAK, J.
DATE : 10 DECEMBER 2018.

P.C. :-

- 1] None for the petitioner.
- 2] The learned counsel for the respondents states that the challenge in this petition was to the determination of compensation which the petitioner were required to pay as a condition precedent for interim relief before the Appeal Court. He points out that the appeal has already been dismissed and thereafter, even the petition and the SLP against the dismissal of the appeal, have also been dismissed.
- 3] The learned counsel for the respondents also states that the decrees for eviction have already been executed and further, the landlords have also demolished the suit premises. He, therefore, submits that nothing survives in this petition which has been rendered infructuous.

4] Accepting the statements made by the learned counsel for the respondents, this petition is disposed of as infructuous. Registry to accordingly indicate this petition as disposed of.
