3. The learned counsel for the petitioner, relying upon various documents, tried to argue that the bleaching power supplied by the petitioner was not of inferior quality and the content of chlorine was more than 34%. However, these documents would be required to be proved before the Trial Court by leading evidence.

4. In the light of the above, we are not inclined to quash the subject criminal case. The petition is devoid of any substance and the same is, accordingly, dismissed.
