CRM-39158-2017 and Main Case

Learned counsel for the applicant contends that in compliance with the orders of this Court, the entire arrears stand paid to the respondent except a sum of Rs.5,000/- which he has paid today in the Court itself. That apart, it is stated that the present order had been passed as an interim measure in the proceedings under Section 125 Cr.P.C but now final order has been passed which would render the present application as well as main petition infructuous.

In view of this, main petition is taken on Board today and considering the fact that the main application for maintenance has been decided, the present application as well as main petition are disposed of as infructuous.
