At the very onset, learned counsel for the petitioner has made statement withdrawing his power of attorney on account of the conduct of the petitioner.

During the course of interaction with the couple respondent No.2 had shown to the Court that the petitioner has again backed out of his commitment and settlement arrived at with her and has refused to take her back though the petitioner has sought to justify his stand but the Court observes that the petitioner appears to be shrugging from his responsibilities and obligations towards the respondent-wife.

In the light of the stand taken by the respondent and her counsel that she wishes to withdraw her consent to this arrangement of quashment and does not pursue and withdraw her statement made before the trial Court, the present petition stands dismissed.

However, the respondent-wife is at liberty to get revived all the cases, which she claims that she has withdrawn at the asking of the petitioner on his false assurance, from which, he has backed out.
