O R D E R

[Order of the Court was made by M.M.SUNDRESH, J.]

The petitioner, who is the son of the detenu, challenges the order of detention dated 23.12.2018 passed against the detenu Manavalan @ Justin Manavalan branding him as a Sexual Offender.

2. Heard the learned counsel for the petitioner as well as the learned Additional Public Prosecutor for the respondents.

3. The learned counsel for the petitioner assailed the order of detention on the ground of non-supply of judicial order extending the remand of the detenu and it was only the proforma of the jail authorities which was furnished to the detenu which shows the extension of remand of the detenu and hence, the detenu was deprived of his opportunity to make effective representation to the Government opposing the order of detention, and accordingly, the order of detention is liable to be quashed.

4. The learned Additional Public Prosecutor appearing for the detaining authority also admits that only the proforma prepared by the sponsoring authority for extension of remand was furnished to the detenu and not the judicial order passed by the learned Magistrate.

5. On perusal of the paper book furnished to the detenu, we could only find the proforma furnished by the police/jail authority showing the extension of remand till 04.01.2019 and we find no such order passed by the learned Magistrate extending the remand of the detenu in the booklet furnished to the detenu, which, in our considered opinion, would deprive of the opportunity of the detenu to make effective representation. Therefore, we are of the view that it is a fit case to set aside the impugned order of detention on the ground of non-supply of judicial order extending the remand of the detenu.

6. Accordingly the impugned order of detention is set aside. The detenu is directed to be set at liberty forthwith unless his presence is required in connection with any other case. The Habeas Corpus Petition is allowed.
