Counsel for the petitioner : Sri. D. Purnachandra Reddy

Counsel for the respondents : The Advocate General

The Court made the following:

ORDER: (Per the Hon'ble Dr. Justice Shameem Akther)

Smt. Chennaboina Sumathi, the petitioner, has filed this present petition on behalf of her husband, Chennaboina Srinivas, in order to challenge the detention order dated 17.11.2018 passed by the Commissioner of Police, Karimnagar, the respondent No.2, and the confirmation order dated 21.01.2019 passed by the Principal Secretary to Government (POLL), Government of Telangana.

Heard the learned counsel for the parties, and perused the impugned orders.

Briefly, the facts of the case are that by relying on the five recent cases registered against the detenu, the Commissioner of Police, Karimnagar, the respondent No.2, passed the detention order dated 17.11.2018. According to the respondent No.2, the detenu was involved in as many as seven cases of robbery, chain snatchings and temple thefts by committing theft of gold, silver ornaments and net cash, all worth Rs.2.00 lakhs. But, merely relying on the recent most five cases, the detention order was passed. Subsequently, by order dated 21.01.2019 the detention order was confirmed by the Principal Secretary to Government (POLL), Government of Telangana. Hence, this writ petition before this Court.

Mr. D. Purnachandra Reddy, learned counsel for the petitioner, has raised the following contentions before this Court:

Firstly, that relying only on the five recent most cases registered against the detenu the detention order is passed. There is no iota of evidence about the alleged cases registered against the detenu. The alleged cases do not add up to “disturbing the public order”. They are confined within the ambit and scope of the word “law and order”. Since the offences alleged are under the Indian Penal Code, the detenu can certainly be tried and convicted under the penal code. Thus, there was no need for the detaining authority to invoke the draconian preventive detention laws. Hence, the impugned order tantamount to the colourable exercise of power. Thus, the impugned orders are legally unsustainable.

On the other hand, Mr. S. Sharath, the learned Special Government Pleader, pleads that in each case, allegedly committed by the detenu, he managed to get bail from the Court concerned. The series of crimes allegedly committed by him were sufficient to cause a feeling of insecurity in the minds of the people at large. Since the modus of committing the crime was committing robbery, chain snatchings and temple theft, it has created sufficient panic in the minds of the general public. Therefore, the detaining authority was legally justified in passing the impugned orders. Hence, the learned Government Pleader has supported the impugned orders.

In view of the submissions made by both the sides, the point that arises for determination in this Writ Petition is whether the detention order, dated 17.11.2018, passed by the respondent No.2 and the confirmation order, dated 21.01.2019, passed by the Principal Secretary to Government (POLL), Government of Telangana, are liable to be set aside?

In catena of cases, the Hon'ble Supreme Court had clearly opined that there is a vast difference between "law and order" and "public order". The offences which are committed against a particular individual fall within the ambit of "law and order". It is only when the public at large is adversely affected by the criminal activities of a person, is the conduct of a person said to disturb the public order. Moreover, individual cases can be dealt with by the criminal justice system. Therefore, there is no need for the detaining authority to invoke the draconian preventive detention laws against an individual. For the invoking of such law adversely effects the fundamental right of personal liberty which is protected and promoted by Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Hence, according to the Apex Court, the detaining authority should be wary of invoking the immense power under the Act.

In the case of Ram Manohar Lohia v. State of Bihar¹, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has, in fact, deprecated the invoking of the preventive law in order to tackle a law and order problem. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed as under:

"54. We have here a case of detention under Rule 30 of the Defence of India Rules which permits apprehension and detention of a person likely to act in a manner prejudicial to the maintenance of public order. It follows that if such a person is not detained public disorder is the apprehended result. Disorder is no doubt prevented by the maintenance of law and order also but disorder is a broad spectrum which includes at one end small disturbances and at the other the most serious and cataclysmic happenings. Does the expression "public order" take in every kind of disorders or only some of them? The answer to this serves to distinguish "public order" from "law and order" because the latter undoubtedly takes in all of them. Public order if disturbed, must lead to public disorder. Every breach of the peace does not lead to public disorder. When two drunkards quarrel and fight there is disorder but not public disorder. They can be dealt with under the powers to maintain law and order but cannot be detained on the ground that they were disturbing public order. Suppose that the two fighters were of rival communities and one of them tried to raise communal passions. The problem is still one of law and order but it raises the apprehension of public disorder. Other examples can be imagined. The contravention of law always affects order but before it can be said to affect public order, it must affect the community or the public at large. A mere disturbance of law and order leading to disorder is thus not necessarily sufficient for action under the Defence of India Act but disturbances which subvert the public order are. A District Magistrate is entitled to take action under Rule 30(1)(b) to prevent subversion of public order but not in aid of maintenance of law and order under ordinary circumstances."

In the case of Kanu Biswas v. State of West Bengal², the Supreme Court has opined as under:

"The question whether a man has only committed a breach of law and order or has acted in a manner likely to cause a disturbance of the public order is a question of degree and the extent of the reach of the act upon the society. Public order is what the French call ‘order publique’ and is something more than ordinary maintenance of law and order. The test to be adopted in determining whether an act affects law and order or public order, as laid down in the above case, is: Does it lead to disturbance of the current of life of the community so as to amount to a disturbance of the public order or does it affect merely an individual leaving the tranquility of the society undisturbed?”

In the present case, the detenu is said to be involved in seven criminal cases. However, the detaining authority relied on five (05) criminal cases in Crime Nos.260 of 2018, 413/2018, 219/2018, 166/2018 and 252/2018. We shall present in a tabular column the date of occurrence, the date of registration of FIRs, the offences complained of and their nature, such as bailable/non-bailable or cognizable/non-cognizable.

Crime No.	Date of Occurrence	Date of registration of FIR	Offences	Nature
260/2018 of Huzurabad PS	27.09.2018	27.09.2018	Section 356 r/w 511 IPC	Bailable/ Cognizable
413/2018 of Karimnagar-I Town PS	28.09.2018	28.09.2018	Section 392 IPC	Non-bailable/ cognizable
219/2018 of LMD Colony PS	02.10.2018	02.10.2018	Sections 448, 382 r/w 34 IPC	Non-bailable/ cognizable
166/2018 of Saidapur PS	03.10.2018	03.10.2018	Sections 448, 382 IPC	Non-bailable/ cognizable
252/2018 of Manakondur PS	Intervening night of 03/04.10.18	04.10.2018 at 13:30 hours	Sections 457, 380 IPC	Non-bailable/ cognizable

Grave as the offences may be, they have been committed against particular individuals. So, no inference of disturbance of public order can be drawn. These cases can be tried under the normal criminal law. Hence, there was no need for the detaining authority to pass the detention order.

A bare perusal of the detention order clearly reveals that the detaining authority is concerned by the fact that in all the criminal cases the detenu has been granted bail by the Court concerned. However, the apprehension of the detaining authority that even in future the detenu is likely to get bail, is highly misplaced. Since the detaining authority is the Commissioner of Police himself, it is the bounden duty of the Police to inform the learned Public Prosecutor about the conduct of an accused and to handover the history-sheet of the accused. If the Police were vigilant enough to collect the data on the alleged offenders, and to furnish the relevant information to the learned Public Prosecutors, the same could be placed by the learned Public Prosecutors before the learned Court. However, it is the Police that has failed to inform the learned Public Prosecutor about the criminal history of the offender. For the fault of the Police, the respondent No.2 cannot be permitted to invoke the preventive detention laws in order to breach the liberty of an individual.

Therefore, for the reasons stated above, the impugned orders are legally unsustainable.

In the result, the Writ Petition is allowed. The impugned detention order dated 17-11-2018, passed by respondent No.2, and the confirmation order, dated 21-01-2019, passed by the respondent No.1 are set aside. The respondents are directed to set the detenu, namely Mr.Chennaboina Srinivas, S/o. Kanakaiah, at liberty forthwith, if he is no longer detained in judicial custody in the criminal cases, which have been so far registered against him.

The miscellaneous petitions pending in this Writ Petition, if any, shall stand closed. There shall be no order as to costs.
