Marriage was solemnized between the parties on 17.05.2006 at Sunam, District Sangrur as per Hindu rites. Parties cohabited thereafter and a female child namely Lisha was born from the wedlock. Admittedly, custody of the child is with the appellant-wife. Due to constant bickering between the parties, husband Pardeep Mittal filed a petition under section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act for dissolution of marriage. The court after analyzing the evidence came to the conclusion that marriage needed to be dissolved by decree of divorce. It was ordered accordingly. Present appeal emanates from the said petition. During the pendency of appeal, matter was referred to Mediation and Conciliation Centre where amicable settlement has been arrived at. Parties have decided to part-ways on mutually acceptable terms. In terms thereof, two drafts of ₹25,00,000/- and ₹10,00,000/- respectively have been handed-over to the appellant-wife, who is present in court. Both parties undertake to abide by all the terms and conditions of the settlement.

In view of above, counsel for the appellant submits that he may be allowed to withdraw the present appeal.

Dismissed as withdrawn.
