The claimants are in appeal seeking additional compensation with regard to death of Jaswant Singh on 9.5.1989 during the course of employment.

The sole submission made by counsel for the appellants is that the Commissioner, Ropar, assessed income of the deceased at Rs. 1800/- per month and applied factor of 203.85 but wrongly calculated compensation to the tune of Rs. 65,232/-. It is further submitted that 40% of income is required to be taken into consideration for calculating compensation.

Counsel for the insurance company has not disputed the criteria to be followed for computation of compensation.

When the calculation is made in the light of aforesaid criteria, compensation payable comes to Rs. 81,540/- and as such claimants shall be entitle to additional compensation of Rs. 16,308/-, payable with interest, in terms of the award.

Disposed of accordingly.
