

IN THE HIGH COURT OF PUNJAB AND HARYANA AT CHANDIGARH.

209

CRM-M-30160-2020.

Date of Decision: 29.10.2020.

JATINDER KUMAR

....Petitioner

Versus

STATE OF PUNJAB

....Respondent

CORAM: HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE LALIT BATRA

Present: Mr. Vishal Aggarwal, Advocate for the petitioner.

Mr. M.S. Nagra, Assistant Advocate General, Punjab.

Lalit Batra, J.(Oral)

Case has been taken up for hearing through Video Conferencing.

Present second petition under Section 439 Cr.P.C is for grant of regular bail to petitioner in case FIR No.76 dated 30.03.2019 under Section 22 of NDPS Act, 1985, registered at Police Station City Muktsar, District Shri Muktsar Sahib, Punjab.

Reply along with documents received from Superintendent, Central Jail, Bathinda, is taken on the record.

Learned counsel for the petitioner inter alia contends that the allegations levelled in the FIR are totally concocted, false and frivolous and there is no iota of truth therein. He further urges that as a matter of fact petitioner was picked up from his house and then false recovery of contraband has been planted upon him. He further urges that alleged recovery is highly doubtful as mandatory provisions of Section 50 of NDPS Act were not complied with. He further urges that petitioner is suffering from various ailments requiring constant medical treatment and has been repeatedly taken to hospital. He further urges that in terms of latest report furnished by Medical Officer, Central Jail, Bathinda, petitioner is a known case of Cholelithiasis and for treatment of said ailment, he has already been got admitted in Guru Gobind Singh Medical College, Faridkot on 26.10.2020. He further urges that petitioner intends to get treatment from a private hospital for above said ailment. He further submits that petitioner is in custody since 30.03.2019. He further urges that since trial of the case would take sufficient time to conclude, no useful purpose would be served by keeping the petitioner (accused) in custody further and he may be released on bail.

On the other hand, learned State counsel while opposing instant petition has vehemently argued that petitioner was apprehended while having conscious possession of 1220 tablets of Clovidol-100 SR containing Tramadol Hydrochloride, which is a Psychotropic

Substance under the provisions of NDPS Act besides having conscious possession of 500 tablets of Etizolam. He further submits that FSL report depicting nature of contraband has already been received from quarter concerned. He further submits that actual weight of above said 1220 tablets of Clovidol-100 SR containing Tramadol Hydrochloride comes to 496 grams which falls under “commercial quantity”. He further urges that on these very allegations, earlier petition seeking bail by petitioner has already been dismissed by this Court, vide order dated 17.01.2020 and there is no change in scenario after the disposal of previous petition. He further submits that the present case pertains to “commercial quantity”, thus, in view of bar created by Section 37 of NDPS Act, petitioner does not deserve the concession of bail. Regarding ailment of petitioner and treatment thereof, learned State counsel submits that in view of report dated 28.10.2020 as received from Central Jail, Bathinda, requisite medical assistance is being provided to the petitioner and in case any surgical intervention is required, that treatment would be provided to him.

I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have carefully gone through the contents of petition as well as documents placed on the record.

Hon'ble Supreme Court has laid down broad parameters to be followed while considering the application for bail moved by the accused involved in offences under NDPS Act. In case Union of India Vs. Ram Samujh and Ors., 1999(9) SCC 429, it has been elaborated as under:-

“7. It is to be borne in mind that the aforesaid legislative mandate is required to be adhered to and followed. It should be borne in mind that in a murder case, the accused commits murder of one or two persons, while those persons who are dealing in narcotic drugs are instrumental in causing death or in inflicting death-blow to a number of innocent young victims, who are vulnerable; it causes deleterious effects and a deadly impact on the society; they are a hazard to the society; even if they are released temporarily, in all probability, they would continue their nefarious activities of trafficking and/or dealing in intoxicants clandestinely. Reason may be large stake and illegal profit involved. This Court, dealing with the contention with regard to punishment under the NDPS Act, has succinctly observed about the adverse effect of such activities in Durand Didier v. Chief Secy., Union Territory of Goa (1989(2) RCR(Criminal) 505: (1990) 1 SCC 95) as under:-

24. With deep concern, we may point out that the organised activities of the underworld and the clandestine smuggling of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances into this country and illegal trafficking in such drugs and substances have led to drug addiction among a sizeable section of the public, particularly the adolescents and students of both sexes and the menace has assumed serious and alarming proportions in the recent years. Therefore, in order to effectively control and eradicate this proliferating and booming devastating menace, causing deleterious effects and deadly impact on the society as a whole, Parliament in its wisdom, has made effective provisions by introducing this Act 81 of 1985 specifying mandatory minimum imprisonment and fine.

8. To check the menace of dangerous drugs flooding the market, Parliament has provided that the person accused of offences under the NDPS Act should not be released on bail during trial unless the mandatory conditions provided in Section 37, namely, (i) there are reasonable grounds for believing that the accused is not guilty of such offence; and (ii) that he is not likely to commit any offence while on bail are satisfied. The High Court has not given any justifiable reason for not abiding by the aforesaid mandate while ordering the release of the respondent-accused on bail. Instead of attempting to take a holistic view of the harmful socio- economic consequences and health hazards which would accompany trafficking illegally in dangerous drugs, the court should implement the law in spirit with which Parliament, after due deliberation, has amended.”

Hon'ble Supreme Court in case State of Kerala Etc. Versus Rajesh Etc., 2020(1) R.C.R. (Criminal) 818 while dealing with provisions of Section 37 of NDPS Act, has laid down as under:-

“20. The scheme of Section 37 reveals that the exercise of power to grant bail is not only subject to the limitations contained under Section 439 of the Cr.P.C., but is also subject to the limitation placed by Section 37 which commences with non-obstante clause. The operative part of the said section is in the negative form prescribing the enlargement of bail to any person accused of commission of an offence under the Act, unless twin conditions are satisfied. The first condition is that the prosecution must be given an opportunity to oppose the application; and the second, is that the Court must be satisfied that there are reasonable grounds for believing that he is not guilty of such offence. If either of these two conditions is not satisfied, the ban for granting bail operates. 21. The expression “reasonable grounds” means something more than prima facie grounds. It contemplates substantial probable causes for believing that the accused is not guilty of the alleged offence. The reasonable belief contemplated in the provision requires existence of such facts and circumstances as are sufficient in themselves to justify satisfaction that the accused is not guilty of the alleged offence. In the case in hand, the High Court seems to have completely overlooked the underlying object of Section 37 that in addition to the limitations provided under the CrPC, or any other law for the time being in force, regulating the grant of bail, its liberal approach in the matter of bail under the NDPS Act is indeed uncalled for.”

Without commenting anything on the merits of the case lest it may prejudice the outcome of the trial but taking into consideration the fact that alleged contraband recovered from the petitioner falls under “commercial quantity” and the fact that allegations against the petitioner are serious in nature, thus, in view of rigour of Section 37 of NDPS Act, he does not deserve the concession of bail.

As a sequel to above, instant petition for grant of regular bail moved by the petitioner is dismissed.

While parting with this order, it is observed that since petitioner being known case of Cholelithiasis has already been got admitted by the jail authorities in Guru Gobind Singh Medical College, Faridkot, on 26.10.2020 for treatment, requisite medical assistance including surgical intervention, if so required, be provided to him and that too at State expenses.
