

2. Heard learned counsel for the petitioners. I have perused the application below Ex-33 on which the impugned order has been passed. The application merely states that respondent No.1 is a differently abled illiterate woman, who is not able to pursue her legal action and it is also stated that as far as defendant No.3 is concerned, on account of his avocation of mason work, he is busy throughout the day. This is stated as a reason why they could not hand over the papers to their lawyer within the period stipulated.

3. Taking into consideration the amendment made in the Code of Civil Procedure (“C.P.C.”), which would ensure a speedy trial in civil suits, which are pending for considerable length of time and to do away the delay and laches in its conclusion, the C.P.C. has been amended, wherein the time limit has been prescribed and as far as written statement is concerned, though Order 8 Rule 1 prescribes that written statement shall be filed within a period of 30 days, the proviso enables filing of the written statement on a cause being shown beyond the said period, but in any case, the period shall not be extended beyond 90 days.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioners has pressed into service Section 151 of the C.P.C., which in my considered opinion, is not liable to be invoked in view of the specific provision contained in the C.P.C. Since the application does not disclose any justifiable ground, I see no reason to interfere with the impugned order and, upholding the same, the writ petition deserves a dismissal and is accordingly dismissed.
