Case heard by video conference.

This petition, under the provisions of Section 482 Cr.P.C., has been moved at the instance of the petitioner for quashing of Criminal Complaint No.983 dated 13.03.2020 (Annexure P/1), titled Tata Capital Financial Services Ltd. Vs. Sunrise Traders (through its authorized representatives), and further for quashing of the order dated 13.03.2020 (Annexure P/2), in terms of which the petitioner, alongwith one Lalit Mohan Singla, has been summoned to face trial for the commission of an offence punishable under the provisions of Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act.

Learned counsel for the respondent having stated on an earlier date that in fact the respondent (complainant in the proceedings before the trial court), would not be pursuing the complaint qua the present petitioner, today learned counsel for the petitioner also submits that the statement has been made before the trial court by the respondent and consequently, this petition has been rendered infructuous.

Disposed of as such.

Naturally, the trial court would proceed as per the statement made by the respondent claimant.
