learned A.P.P. for the State.

The petitioner apprehends her arrest in a case registered for the offences punishable under Sections 302, 201 and 120(B) of the Indian Penal Code.

Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner has been falsely implicated merely on basis of suspicion, it is next submitted that informant herself was the second wife of the deceased and was suspected that deceased was having illicit relationship with the petitioner, it is also submitted that if the deceased was having illicit relationship with the petitioner then there was absolutely no occasion for the petitioner to get the deceased killed, it is also submitted that informant is not an eye-witness to the occurrence and the entire allegation hinges around suspicion, it is next submitted that petitioner is a lady and she has been implicated merely out of animosity as the informant without any basis used to suspect her husband that she was having relationship with the petitioner.
