2. The petitioner wants the petition-mentioned court order to be registered by the second respondent. The second respondent declined to do so, on the ground that it was belatedly presented.

3. It is well settled that when it comes to registering a court order, the question of delay will not arise at all. The impugned refusal is set aside. The Writ Petition is allowed. The second respondent is directed to register the petition-mentioned court order. No costs. Consequently, connected miscellaneous petition is closed.
