4. The learned Additional Public Prosecutor, on instructions, submitted that there is already a matrimonial dispute between the petitioner and her husband and there were earlier complaints given by the petitioner against her husband. Hence, the husband seems to have left the matrimonial home.

5. In the considered view of this Court, the Habeas Corpus Petition jurisdiction cannot be used for settling matrimonial dispute between the parties and we do not find any ground to entertain this Habeas Corpus Petition.

6. In the result, this Habeas Corpus Petition is dismissed.
