Versus

State of Punjab and another

...Respondents

CORAM: HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE ARVIND SINGH SANGWAN

Present:- Mr. Ritesh Pandey, Advocate for the petitioners.

Mr. Joginder Pal Ratra, DAG, Punjab.

None for respondent No. 2/complainant.

ARVIND SINGH SANGWAN, J. (Oral)

By way of the present petition, filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C., the petitioners have prayed for quashing of FIR No. 39 dated 15.04.2020, under Sections 452, 324, 323, 427, 506, 148 and 149 of the IPC at Police Station Ghuman Batala, District Batala (Annexure P-1) and all the subsequent proceedings arising therefrom, on the basis of the compromise (Annexure P-2) entered into between the parties.

Vide order dated 12.02.2021, the parties were directed to appear before the trial Court/Illaqia Magistrate and the trial Court/Illaqia Magistrate was directed to record the statements of the parties and submit a report if the compromise is genuine, voluntary and without any coercion or undue influence. It was further directed to verify whether there is any other person involved in the occurrence, who is not a party to the present petition and whose consent for the compromise would be required, if this Court comes to the conclusion that the FIR sought to be quashed can be so quashed.

A report dated 24.03.2021 has been submitted by the Judicial Magistrate First Class, Batala, wherein it has been reported that statement of the petitioners (except petitioner No. 3 Inder Singh @ Ghulti) and respondent No. 2 have been recorded, however, since petitioner No. 3 did not turn up for recording of his statement, no opinion regarding genuineness of the compromise can be given. It is further reported that as per statement of the Investigating Officer, there are total 09 accused (petitioners herein) and none of them has been declared a proclaimed offender.

A perusal of the statement of respondent No. 2/complainant, which is attached with the aforesaid report, shows that he has stated that he does not want to proceed against the accused persons/petitioners including petitioner No. 3 Inder Singh @ Ghulti. This shows that there is a valid compromise between the petitioners and the complainant.

Learned counsel for the petitioners further submitted that no other criminal case is pending between the parties and none of the petitioners is a proclaimed offender.

Learned State counsel, on instructions from the Investigating Officer, has not disputed the fact that the parties have arrived at a settlement with an intent to give burial to their differences.

I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the case file.

As per the Full Bench judgment of this Court in Kulwinder Singh and others Vs. State of Punjab, 2007 (3) RCR (Criminal) 1052, it is held that the High Court has power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. to allow the compounding of non-compoundable offence and quash the prosecution where the High Court feel that the same was required to prevent the abuse of the process of law or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. This power of quashing is not confined to matrimonial disputes alone.

Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Gian Singh Vs. State of Punjab and another, 2012 (4) RCR (Criminal) 543, has held as under:-

“The position that emerges from the above discussion can be summarised thus: the power of the High Court in quashing a criminal proceeding or FIR or complaint in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction is distinct and different from the power given to a criminal court for compounding the offences under Section 320 of the Code. Inherent power is of wide plenitude with no statutory limitation but it has to be exercised in accord with the guideline engrafted in such power viz; (i) to secure the ends of justice or (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court. In what cases power to quash the criminal proceeding or complaint or F.I.R may be exercised where the offender and victim have settled their dispute would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no category can be prescribed. However, before exercise of such power, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the crime. Heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. cannot be fittingly quashed even though the victim or victim's family and the offender have settled the dispute. Such offences are not private in nature and have serious impact on society. Similarly, any compromise between the victim and offender in relation to the offences under special statutes like Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity etc; cannot provide for any basis for quashing criminal proceedings involving such offences. But the criminal cases having overwhelmingly and predominatingly civil flavour stand on different footing for the purposes of quashing, particularly the offences arising from commercial, financial, mercantile, civil, partnership or such like transactions or the offences arising out of matrimony relating to dowry, etc. or the family disputes where the wrong is basically private or personal in nature and the parties have resolved their entire dispute. In this category of cases, High Court may quash criminal proceedings if in its view, because of the compromise between the offender and victim, the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of criminal case would put accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal case despite full and complete settlement and compromise with the victim. In other words, the High Court must consider whether it would be unfair or contrary to the interest of justice to continue with the criminal proceeding or continuation of the criminal proceeding would tantamount to abuse of process of law despite settlement and compromise between the victim and wrongdoer and whether to secure the ends of justice, it is appropriate that criminal case is put to an end and if the answer to the above question(s) is in affirmative, the High Court shall be well within its jurisdiction to quash the criminal proceeding.”

Since the parties have arrived at a compromise and have decided to live in peace, no useful purpose would be served in allowing the criminal proceedings to continue.

In view of the above discussion, present petition is allowed and FIR No. 39 dated 15.04.2020, under Sections 452, 324, 323, 427, 506, 148 and 149 of the IPC at Police Station Ghuman Batala, District Batala (Annexure P-1) and all the subsequent proceedings arising therefrom are ordered to be quashed qua the petitioners herein, however, subject to payment of costs of ₹5,000/- to be deposited with the District Legal Services Authority, Batala.
