TRIBHUVAN DAHIYA, J. (ORAL)

As per office report, the respondent is no more.

Learned counsel for the appellant/plaintiff states that on account of death of the respondent/defendant, the appeal has been rendered infructuous since the permanent injunction with respect to encroachment on a portion of the street was sought and issued against the defendant only. After his death, nothing survives in the appeal.

In view thereof, this appeal is dismissed as having been rendered infructuous.
