CRM-M-13433-2021

"The Court has been convened through video conferencing due to Covid-19 Pandemic.

Instant petition has been filed under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 seeking quashing of FIR No.194 dated 20.12.2019 registered under Section 326 (added lateron) 324, 148, 149 IPC at Police Station Arni Wala, District Fazilka alongwith all subsequent proceedings arising therein, on the basis of compromise dated 05.10.2020 (Annexure P-3).

Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that FIR has been registered as a result of petty dispute between the parties which has been settled by virtue of compromise (Annexure P-3). He has referred to para-14 of the petition to submit that none of the petitioners have been declared as proclaimed offenders.

Notice of motion.

On asking of the Court, Mr. Ramandeep Sandhu, Senior Deputy Advocate General, Punjab, accepts notice on behalf of respondent-State and seeks time to get instructions.

Mr. Satbir Gill, Advocate, has put in appearance on behalf of respondent No.2. He has admitted the factum of compromise effected between the parties.

The parties are directed to appear before the Illaqa Magistrate/trial Court on 20.04.2021 for getting their statements recorded with regard to the compromise. The Illaqa Magistrate/trial Court shall submit the report on or before the next date of hearing. The report be forwarded to this Court specifying the following:-

- 1. The number of accused arraigned in the FIR and how many have appeared before it and have made statements and whether any accused is absconding/P.O in the case;*
- 2. the name of the complainant and injured/aggrieved and whether all of them have appeared and made their statements in support of the compromise;*
- 3. the stage of trial/proceedings;*
- 4. if the compromise is genuine, voluntary and out of free will of the parties;*
- 5. whether any other criminal case is pending against the accused.*

Report of the Illaqa Magistrate/trial Court be awaited for 18.08.2021.”

4. The afore made orders by this Court on 24.03.2021, have been complied with by the learned Magistrate concerned, and, the elicited report has been placed on record. A perusal of the reports, transmitted to this Court, by the learned Magistrate concerned, reveals that the settlement(s)/compromise(s), arrived at inter se the petitioners, and, the respondent(s)-complainant, is a sequel of both, being ad idem qua it, besides the compromise(s)/settlement(s) being a sequel of no pressure or coercion, being exercised upon each other. Moreover, the compromise is compositely drawn, and, thereons exist the signatures of all concerned, in the penal transactions concerned. Therefore, the learned Magistrate has reported that the settlement(s)/compromise(s), depended upon by the petitioners, for seeking quashing of the FIR (supra), and, for the quashing of Rapat are both voluntary, and, also free from vices of duress, and, or of compulsion, being exercised upon each other, besides are genuine.

5. Today, the learned counsel appearing for the State of Punjab, has contended before this Court, that the relief, as claimed by the petitioners, in both the petitions, cannot be granted, as some of the offences constituted against the accused-petitioners concerned, inasmuch as, those under Sections 324, 326, 148, 149 of the IPC, are non-compoundable.

6. However, for the reasons to be assigned hereinafter, the afore prayer, as made by the learned State counsel, cannot be accepted by this Court. The pre-eminent reason for dispelling the vigour of afore made argument, is rested, upon the factum of also a statement, being made before this Court, by the learned counsel for the petitioners, that the case is still under investigation, and, report under Section 173 Cr.P.C., has not yet been presented before the learned Magistrate concerned. Moreover, since it is also stated that, during the course of investigation(s), a proposal for filing of cancellation report, qua the petition FIR, and, also qua Rapat, has been prepared, but has not been filed.

7. The effect of the afore statement, as made with extreme vehemence by the learned counsel for the petitioners, and, also the effect of the statement made by the learned counsel appearing for the State of Punjab, is that the relevant parameters as encapsulated in a verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court, rendered in case titled as, Gian Singh versus State of Punjab and another 2012 (4) RCR (Criminal) 543, inasmuch as a postulate/occurring therein, that the inherent power under Section 482 Cr.P.C., hence for compounding the relevant offence, through recourse being made to the provisions of Section 482 Cr.P.C., as vested in the High Court, for quashing of criminal proceedings, as/of FIR or complaint, rather being distinct and different from the power given to a criminal Court, being enjoined to become tested vis-a-vis the facts in hand, for apposite application thereon. However, it has also been held therein, the afore power vested in the High Court, is of the widest plenitude, with no statutory limitation, being placed thereon, yet it has to be exercised to secure the ends of justice, and, to prevent the abuse of process of any Court. Though no straightjacket formula, has been contemplated therein, for recourse being made to the mandate of Section 482 Cr.P.C., hence for quashing of an FIR, or criminal proceedings or complaint, yet the essential rubric viz-a-viz its valid exercising, is comprised in the principle, that if the accused and the complainant rather enter into a valid ad idem settlement, and, when thereupon the conviction of the accused becomes remote and bleak. Consequently, it has been mandated, that unless the offence sought to be quashed, through exercising of the power vested under Section 482 Cr.P.C., are not serious and heinous, inasmuch as the afore, do not embody offences appertaining to murder, rape, dacoity etc., and, or when the offences are in relation to special statutes like Prevention of Corruption Act or offences committed by public servants, while working in that capacity, thereupon it can be permissibly exercised. However, upon evident existences of embargos (supra), spelt in the verdict (supra), thereupon, the High Courts are barred, through recouring the mandate of Section 482 Cr.P.C., hence, to quash the FIR or quash the criminal proceedings appertaining to serious/heinous offences (supra).

8. It is apt to extract the relevant paragraph of the verdict made by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Gian Singh's case (supra).

“The position that emerges from the above discussion can be summarised thus: the power of the High Court in quashing a criminal proceeding or FIR or complaint in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction is distinct and different from the power given to a criminal court for compounding the offences under Section 320 of the Code. Inherent power is of wide plenitude with no statutory limitation but it has to be exercised in accordance with the guideline engrafted in such power viz; (i) to secure the ends of justice or (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court. In what cases power to quash the criminal proceeding or complaint or F.I.R may be exercised where the offender and victim have settled their dispute would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no category can be prescribed. However, before exercise of such power, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the crime. Heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. cannot be fittingly quashed even though the victim or victim's family and the offender have settled the dispute. Such offences are not private in nature and have serious impact on society. Similarly, any compromise between the victim and offender in relation to the offences under special statutes like Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity etc; cannot provide for any basis for quashing criminal proceedings involving such offences. But the criminal cases having overwhelmingly and predominatingly civil flavour stand on different footing for the purposes of quashing, particularly the offences arising from commercial, financial, mercantile, civil, partnership or such like transactions or the offences arising out of matrimony relating to dowry, etc. or the family disputes where the wrong is basically private or personal in nature and the parties have resolved their entire dispute. In this category of cases, High Court may quash criminal proceedings if in its view, because of the compromise between the offender and victim, the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of criminal case would put accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal case despite full and complete settlement and compromise with the victim. In other words, the High Court must consider whether it would be unfair or contrary to the interest of justice to continue with the criminal proceeding or continuation of the criminal proceeding would tantamount to abuse of process of law despite settlement and compromise between the victim and wrongdoer and whether to secure the ends of justice, it is appropriate that criminal case is put to an end and if the answer to the above question(s) is in affirmative, the High Court shall be well within its jurisdiction to quash the criminal proceeding.”

9. Since the offence(s) respectively carried in the petition FIR, and, in the cross case, respectively embodie(s) offences under Sections 324, 326 148, 149 of the IPC, and, under Section 323/34 of IPC, thereupon(s) they do not, prima facie, appear to be so grave and nor are so heinous, so as to attract the rigour of the embargo (supra) foisted upon the High Court in verdict (supra). Therefore, the settlement/compromise, as validly entered into, enjoins its being revered. Consequently, even if the afore offences are non-compoundable, this Court does not deem it fit to accept the contention(s) of the learned State counsel, that this Court, may not through recouring the mandate of Section 482 Cr.P.C., quash the FIR, and/or, the cross version. In aftermath when rather thereupons, the chances of the petitioners being convicted are remote as well as bleak. In sequel, the ordering for the trial of the accused, would result in harassment and humiliation, being caused to the accused, besides would defeat the ends of justice.

10. Furthermore, an immense support to the afore made view, is also derived from the judgment rendered by this Court in case titled as Vinod @

Boda and others versus State of Haryana and another 2017(1) R.C.R. (Criminal) 571, wherein also, the above view has been reiterated.

11. There is merit in both the petitions, and, both the same are allowed. Consequently, after accepting the report of the learned Magistrate concerned, this Court proceeds to quash the FIR (supra) as well as the cross case.

12. Accordingly, the FIR (supra), and, the cross cross, as arises out of the same, and, also all the consequential proceedings, hence arising therefrom, are all quashed qua the petitioners.

13. A photocopy of this order be placed on the file of other connected case.
