various schemes of Al company. On believing the advertisements, 65 Depositors deposited their money to the tune of Rs.85,20,061.10/-between 1989 and 2005 in the various schemes floated by the Al company. 5. The learned counsel appearing for the petitioner would submit that the petitioner is arrayed as A11. Though the petitioner was Director of the first accused Company, during March 2002 he resigned his Directorship and his resignation was duly accepted by the Board of Directors of the first accused Company. Form 32 was also filed before the Registrar of the Companies. During his Directorship, there was no issue in settling the depositors and there was no complaint whatsoever from the depositors. He further submitted that the provisions of the TNPID Act were extended to Companies registered under the Companies Act, 1956 only from 10.11.2003 as per amendment to Section 2(3) of TNPID Act under Amendment Act 30 of 2003. The said amendment, not being retrospective, the provision of TNPID Act would not apply to the first accused before the amendment dated 10.11.2003. In fact, the petitioner was ceased to be a Director even 18 months prior to the amendment.

6. A perusal of the counter reveals that the President and Director of the first accused Company had collected a sum of Rs.8,53,900/- from 33 depositors with false inducements from 03.08.1993 to 27.04.2002 and committed default. Insofar as the applicability of the provision is concerned, the provision under Section 2(2) of the TNPID Act means “Deposit” either in one lump sum or by instalments made in the financial establishments like the first accused for the fixed period for interest or returns in any kind or for any service and thus includes even the service as consideration for deposit of money. Therefore, the petitioner cannot escape on that ground. Even assuming that the first accused is not liable to be added as an accused as a Director, the petitioner has collected a sum of Rs.8,53,900/- by giving false inducement to the general public and failed to repay the said amount. Therefore, there are specific allegations as against the petitioner in order to attract the offences under Sections 417, 418, 419, 420, 506(ii) of IPC and Section 5 of TNPID Act, 1997. Further, the petitioner and other accused persons committed very serious offence as against the Society.

7. In this regard, it is relevant to rely upon the judgment of the

Crl.O.P.No.5111 of 2021

Hon'ble Supreme Court of India passed in Crl.A.No.579 of 2019 dated

02.04.2019 in the case of Devendra Prasad Singh Vs. State of Bihar &

Anr., as follows:-

" 12. So far as the second ground is concerned, we are of the view that the High Court while hearing the application under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. had no jurisdiction to appreciate the statement of the witnesses and record a finding that there were inconsistencies in their statements and, therefore, there was no prima facie case made out against respondent No.2. In our view, this could be done only in the trial while deciding the issues on the merits or/and by the Appellate Court while deciding the appeal arising out of the final order passed by the Trial Court but not in Section 482 Cr.P.C. proceedings.

13. In view of the foregoing discussion, we allow the appeal, set aside the impugned order and restore the aforementioned complaint case to its original file for being proceeded with on merits in accordance with law.

8. Recently, the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India dealing in respect of the very same issue in Crl.A.No.1572 of 2019 dated 17.10.2019 in the case of Central Bureau of Investigation Vs. Arvind

Khanna, wherein, it has been held as follows:

“19. After perusing the impugned order and on hearing the submissions made by the learned senior counsels on both sides, we are of the view that the impugned order passed by the High Court is not sustainable. In a petition filed under Section 482 of Cr.P.C., the High Court has recorded findings on several disputed facts and allowed the petition. Defence of the accused is to be tested after appreciating the evidence during trial. The very fact that the High Court, in this case, went into the most minute details, on the allegations made by the appellant-C.B.I., and the defence put-forth by the respondent, led us to a conclusion that the High Court has exceeded its power, while exercising its inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

20. In our view, the assessment made by the High Court at this stage, when the matter has been taken cognizance by the Competent Court, is completely incorrect and uncalled for.”

9. Further the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India also held in the order dated 02.12.2019 in Crl.A.No.1817 of 2019 in the case of M.Jayanthi Vs. K.R.Meenakshi & anr, as follows:

"9. It is too late in the day to seek reference to any authority for the proposition that while invoking the power under Section 482 Cr.P.C for quashing a complaint or a charge, the Court should not embark upon an enquiry into the validity of the evidence available. All that the Court should see is as to whether there are allegations in the complaint which form the basis for the ingredients that constitute certain offences complained of. The Court may also be entitled to see (i) whether the preconditions requisite for taking cognizance have been complied with or not; and (ii) whether the allegations contained in the complaint, even if accepted in entirety, would not constitute the offence alleged.

13. A look at the complaint filed by the appellant would show that the appellant had incorporated the ingredients necessary for prosecuting the respondents for the offences alleged. The question whether the appellant will be able to prove the allegations in a manner known to law would arise only at a later stage....."

The above judgments are squarely applicable to this case and as such, the points raised by the petitioner cannot be considered by this Court under

CrI.O.P.No.5111 of 2021

Section 482 Cr.P.C.

10. In view of the above discussions, this Court is not inclined to quash the proceedings in C.C.No.8 of 2020 on the file of the Special Judge TNPID Cases, Chennai and it is liable to be dismissed. Accordingly, this Criminal Original Petition stands dismissed. Consequently, connected miscellaneous petition is closed.
