SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.(ORAL)

Since the challenged notification before this Court, and, to which Annexure P-1 assigned has been issued by the competent authority concerned. Therefore, since the reservation, as made for the relevant purpose is made through exercise of keen application of the mind to the relevant subject. Moreover, since the said declaration squarely falls within the domain of the policy decision of the respondent concerned, resultantly when the Hon'ble Supreme Court has repeatedly pronounced that in respect of a policy decision, the writ Courts may not interfere. Consequently, this Court finds no merit in the instant writ petition. Thus the writ petition is dismissed it being completely ill-constituted.
