The present petition has been filed under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India for issuance of a writ in the nature of mandamus for directing the respondent No.1 to 3 to protect the life and liberty of the petitioner.

The petitioner is aggrieved of the action of the Police in not registering the FIR and not conducting the proper investigation. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that a complaint was filed but they are forcing the petitioner to enter into a compromise. The petitioner prays for direction to the Police to take appropriate action against the respondents.

The petitioner has not availed of the said effective remedy available under the Cr.P.C. and has directly approached this Court.

The procedure under Cr.P.C. is available for redressal of grievances of the petitioner by moving application under Section 156 Cr.P.C. or by filing complaint under Section 190 Cr.P.C.

Allowing the petitioner to take all the remedy available under Cr.P.C. for lodging of complaint and also getting the FIR registered, the present petition is dismissed accordingly.
