1. The learned counsel representing the respondent in both the revision petitions submits that the revision petitions are rendered infructuous pursuant to the decree of possession by way of specific performance of the agreement to sell. Not only the sale deed is executed against the decree holder but the possession has already been delivered.
2. The learned counsel representing the petitioner does not dispute that fact.
3. Keeping in view the aforesaid fact, both the revision petitions are dismissed as infructuous.
4. All the pending miscellaneous applications, if any, are also disposed of.
