CRM-M-63079-2023
Date of decision: 20.12.2023

GURVINDER SINGH ALIAS BINDER

....Petitioner

VersusSTATE OF HARYANA

...Respondent

CORAM: HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE KULDEEP TIWARI

Present : Mr. Munish Gupta, Advocate for the petitioner.

Mr. Bhupender Singh, DAG, Haryana.

Mr. Sandeep Verma, Advocate for the complainant.

KULDEEP TIWARI. J.(Oral)

1. Through the instant petition, the petitioner craves for indulgence of this Court for his being enlarged on regular bail, in case FIR No.212 dated 13.09.2023, under Sections 120-B, 420, 467, 468 and 471 of IPC, registered at Police Station Panjokhra, District Ambala.

ALLEGATIONS AGAINST THE PETITIONER

2. The crux of the allegations against the present petitioner are that, he is the nephew of the main accused, Sukhwinder Singh (ex-sarpanch), who knows the nuances of all the legal proceedings. Sukhwinder Singh earlier challenged a gift deed, executed by the mother of Gurbaj Singh, in his favour. Sukhwinder Singh remained unsuccessful in challenging the above-said gift deed, and has lost the civil suit up to the level of First Appellate Court. Thereupon, the petitioner submits an application on behalf of Sukhwinder Singh, supplying wrong averments and concealing the fact that the petitioner has already lost the civil suit, with regard to the land in question, which led to the passing of mutation No.7501, and later on the same was also sanctioned in favour of Sukhwinder Singh.

SUBMISSIONS OF LEARNED COUNSEL FOR THE PETITIONER

3. The learned counsel for the petitioner, in his asking for the hereinabove extracted relief, has made the following submissions:-

(i) Petitioner is not the beneficiary out of the said mutation;

(ii) Whether such documents were supplied by the petitioner to the Revenue Officer concerned is a matter of trial;

(iii) Petitioner was arrested way on 21.10.2023 and suffered incarceration of about 02 months;

(iv) Investigation has already been completed and they are going to submit the final report before the learned Illaqa Magistrate concerned”.

SUBMISSIONS OF THE LEARNED COUNSEL FOR THE RESPONDENT

4. Per contra, Mr. Sandeep Verma, Advocate appears and filed his Power of Attorney, on behalf of the complainant and strongly opposed the grant of regular bail to the petitioner, on the ground that the petitioner is the person, who is the mastermind behind the entire occurrence, and he is the person who has supplied the document to the Revenue Officer, and being the ex-Sarpanch he is well-aware about the legal nuances. Learned counsel for the complainant further submits that the petitioner was also aware about the civil litigation, in which Sukhwinder Singh lost, as he was one of the witness in that litigation. Learned counsel for the complainant also submits that the table, which was the basis of getting the mutation entered in favour of Sukhwinder Singh, in the said table, Gurbaj Singh was shown to be alive, whereas, he had died way back in the year 2011.

SUBMISSIONS OF THE LEARNED STATE COUNSEL

5. Learned State counsel, who is in receipt of advance notice, has placed on record the custody certificate of the petitioner, as issued by the Deputy Superintendent of Central Jail, (Ambala) Haryana, which reveals that the petitioner has undergone 01 month and 29 days, as on today. Perusal of the custody certificate further reveals that the petitioner is not involved in any other case. Learned State counsel on instruction, submits that the investigation is complete and they are soon going to submit the final report before the learned Illaqa Magistrate concerned.

ANALYSIS

6. “Bail is the Rule and Jail is an Exception”. This basic principle of criminal jurisprudence was laid down by the Hon’ble Supreme Court, way back in 1978, in its landmark judgment titled “State of Rajasthan V. Balchand alias Baliy”, 1977 AIR 2447, 1978 SCR (1) 535. This principle finds its roots in one of the most distinguished fundamental rights, as enshrined in Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Though the underlying objective behind detention of a person is to ensure easy availability of an accused for trial, without any inconvenience, however, in case the presence of an accused can be secured otherwise, then detention is not compulsory.

7. The right to a speedy trial is one of the rights of a detained person. However, while deciding application for regular bail, the Courts shall also take into consideration the fundamental precept of criminal jurisprudence, which is “the presumption of innocence”, besides the gravity of offence(s) involved.

8. In “Nikesh Tarachand Shah V. Union of India”, (2018) 11 SCC 1, the Hon’ble Supreme Court has recorded the following:-

“14. In Gurbaksh Singh Sibbia v. State of Punjab, (1980) 2 SCC 565 at 586-588, the purpose of granting bail is set out with great felicity as follows:-

“27. It is not necessary to refer to decisions which deal with the right to ordinary bail because that right does not furnish an exact parallel to the right to anticipatory bail. It is, however, interesting that as long back as in 1924 it was held by the High Court of Calcutta in Nagendra v. King-Emperor [AIR 1924 Cal 476, 479, 480 : 25 Cri LJ 732] that the object of bail is to secure the attendance of the accused at the trial, that the proper test to be applied in the solution of the question whether bail should be granted or refused is whether it is probable that the party will appear to take his trial and that it is indisputable that bail is not to be withheld as a punishment. In two other cases which, significantly, are the 'Meerut Conspiracy cases' observations are to be found regarding the right to bail which deserve a special mention. In K.N. Joglekar v. Emperor [AIR 1931 All 504 : 33 Cri LJ 94] it was observed, while dealing with Section 498 which corresponds to the present Section 439 of the Code, that it conferred upon the Sessions Judge or the High Court wide powers to grant bail which were not handicapped by the restrictions in the preceding Section 497 which corresponds to the present Section 437. It was observed by the court that there was no hard and fast rule and no inflexible principle governing the exercise of the discretion conferred by Section 498 and that the only principle which was established was that the discretion should be exercised judiciously. In Emperor v. Hutchinson [AIR 1931 All 356, 358 : 32 Cri LJ 1271] it was said that it was very unwise to make an attempt to lay down any particular rules which will bind the High Court, having regard to the fact that the legislature itself left the discretion of the court unfettered. According to the High Court, the variety of cases that may arise from time to time cannot be safely classified and it is dangerous to make an attempt to classify the cases and to say that in particular classes a bail may be granted but not in other classes. It was observed that the principle to be deduced from the various sections in the Criminal Procedure Code was that grant of bail is the rule and refusal is the exception. An accused person who enjoys freedom is in a much better position to look after his case and to properly defend himself than if he were in custody. As a presumably innocent person he is therefore entitled to freedom and every opportunity to look after his own case. A presumably innocent person must have his freedom to enable him to establish his innocence.

28. Coming nearer home, it was observed by Krishna Iyer, J., in Gudikanti Narasimhulu v. Public Prosecutor [(1978) 1 SCC 240 : 1978 SCC (Cri) 115] that: (SCC p. 242, para 1)

“... the issue of bail is one of liberty, justice, public safety and burden of the public treasury, all of which insist that a developed jurisprudence of bail is integral to a socially sensitized judicial process. . . . After all, personal liberty of an accused or convict is fundamental, suffering lawful eclipse only in terms of procedure established by law. The last four words of Article 21 are the life of that human right.”

29. In Gurcharan Singh v. State (Delhi Administration) [(1978) 1 SCC 118 : 1978 SCC (Cri) 41] it was observed by Goswami, J., who spoke for the court, that: (SCC p. 129, para 29)

“There cannot be an inexorable formula in the matter of granting bail. The facts and circumstances of each case will govern the exercise of judicial discretion in granting or cancelling bail.”

30. In AMERICAN JURISPRUDENCE (2d, Volume 8, p. 806, para 39), it is stated:

“Where the granting of bail lies within the discretion of the court, the granting or denial is regulated, to a large extent, by the facts and circumstances of each particular case. Since the object of the detention or imprisonment of the accused is to secure his appearance and submission to the jurisdiction and the judgment of the court, the primary inquiry is whether a recognizance or bond would effect that end.”

It is thus clear that the question whether to grant bail or not depends for its answer upon a variety of circumstances, the cumulative effect of which must enter into the judicial verdict. Any one single circumstance cannot be treated as of universal validity or as necessarily justifying the grant or refusal of bail.”

9. Also, in Siddharam Satlingappa Mhetre v. State of Maharashtra, Criminal Appeal No.2271 of 2010, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has insisted upon striking a perfect balance of sanctity of an individual's liberty as well as the interest of the society, in grant or refusing bail. The relevant extract of the judgment (supra) is reproduced hereinafter:-

3. The society has a vital interest in grant or refusal of bail because every criminal offence is the offence against the State. The order granting or refusing bail must reflect perfect balance between the conflicting interests, namely, sanctity of individual liberty and the interest of the society. The law of bails dovetails two conflicting interests namely, on the one hand, the requirements of shielding the society from the hazards of those committing crimes and potentiality of repeating the same crime while on bail and on the other hand absolute adherence of the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence regarding presumption of innocence of an accused until he is found guilty and the sanctity of individual liberty.

10. This Court has examined the instant petition on the touchstone of the hereinabove extracted settled legal principle(s) of law and is of the considered opinion that the instant petition is amenable for being allowed.

11. The reason for forming the above inference emanates from the factum that:- (i) as per custody certificate (supra), the petitioner has undergone actual custody of 01 month and 29 days, as on today, and the petitioner is not involved in any other case; (ii) Petitioner is not the beneficiary in the mutation; (iii) The case is triable by Judicial Magistrate First Class, which shall take long time in its conclusion, as the final report is yet to be filed before the learned Illaqa Magistrate concerned; (iv) no fruitful purpose would be served by keeping the petitioner behind the bars.

FINAL ORDER

12. Considering the hereinabove made discussion, this Court deems it appropriate to grant the concession of regular bail to the petitioner. Therefore, without commenting upon the merits and circumstances of the present case, the present petition is allowed. The petitioner is ordered to be released on bail on furnishing of bail bond and surety bond to the satisfaction of concerned Chief Judicial Magistrate/trial Court/Duty Magistrate.

13. However, anything observed here-in-above shall have no effect on the merits of the trial and is meant for deciding the present petition only.
14. All pending application(s) stand disposed of accordingly.
