2. This is an application seeking amendment of the revision application. By way of amendment, the applicant wants to bring on record certain facts relevant for deciding the issue involved in the revision application. It is seen on perusal of the application that the applicant intends to bring on record the reasons for not taking timely steps to redress his grievance before the Family Court.

3. The reply has been filed. It is stated that this amendment application has been made to delay the proceedings. It is submitted that it is nothing but an attempt to circumvent the well reasoned judgment passed in favour of the respondent.
