2.The case of the prosecution is that the petitioner was found in illegal possession of 750 grams of Ganja. Hence, the complaint.

3.The learned counsel for the petitioner would submit that the petitioner is an innocent and he has been falsely implicated in this case. He would further submit that there is no recovery from the petitioner. The contraband recovered only from A2 & A3 and no previous case is pending against the petitioner. Hence, he prays for anticipatory bail.

4.The learned Additional Public Prosecutor appearing for the respondent police would submit that even though the petitioner is not having any previous case and the contraband was recovered from only A2 & A3, all the accused persons have indulged in selling Ganja. He would further submit that on the date of occurrence, on seeing the police party, they tried to escape from the place of occurrence. Further, the investigation is still pending. Hence, he vehemently, opposed to grant anticipatory bail to the petitioner.

5.Even though the total contraband involved in the present case is small quantity, when the respondent police tried to apprehend the accused, they have made an attempt to escape from the scene of occurrence. Hence, I am of the view that this is not a fit case for grant of anticipatory bail.
