BNS, 2023, in Cr.No. 138 of 2024, seeks anticipatory bail.

2. The case of the prosecution is that due to previous motive between the parties, the petitioner had abused the defacto complainant in filthy language and threatened him with dire consequences and also assaulted him with hands. Hence, the complaint.

3. Heard the learned counsel on either side and perused the material records of the case.

4.Considering the facts and circumstances of the case and also considering the nature of occurrence that it is a case and counter case and that the petitioner do not have any bad antecedents, I am inclined to grant anticipatory bail to the petitioner with certain conditions.

5.Accordingly, this Petition is allowed and the petitioner is ordered to be released on bail in the event of arrest or his appearance, within a period of fifteen days from the date of receipt of a copy of this order, before the learned Judicial Magistrate,
