The claim petition was decided by the learned tribunal and the Insurance Company has filed the present appeal against that award seeking reduction in the amount of compensation. It is not very clear from the website of the High Court as to whether the claimants have filed a cross appeal or cross objections against the award of the learned tribunal for enhancement.

In this situation, learned counsel for the Insurance Company submits that this appeal may be dismissed as not pressed but liberty may be granted to it to get this appeal revived, in case it is found that the claimants had already filed an appeal or cross objections or would file cross appeal or cross objections, henceforth.

So ordered.

A copy of this order be supplied to learned counsel for the parties.
